Engineer Treks Six Miles Through Blizzard for Help

Details learned today disclose that three Victorians had a narrow brush with death when a snowmobile carrying a six-man party broke down near Fort St. John Sunday.

The trio, provincial deputy railways minister Joseph Broadbent, Cyril Wightman, PGE official and Dick Batey, of radio station CJVI were members of a PGE railway inspection party making a weekend trip.

They credited a six-mile trek for help by a PGE engineer with saving them from severe frostbite and possible death.

"We were seven hours behind time when the snowmobile finally broke down," said Batey via telephone from Prince George today. "The drifts were too much."

The party carried sleeping bags, snowshoes and lunches, and decided to walk out to civilization.

"By midnight we were exhausted," Batey said.

Realizing it was impossible to go on, they spread their bags out on dead branches, lit a large fire and slept. Each breakfasted on a quarter can of beans and coffee and headed down the trail again Sunday morning.

Five miles further on, the party was again exhausted from fighting the heavy snow and stopped at a shack.

At this point Bud Connell, resident construction engineer at remote Honeycomb Creek, decided to set out for help.

Battling through six miles of blizzard he struggled through to a sawmill settlement operated by a Nichols.

"We stripped Connell of everything heavy so he could travel faster and he set off for Nichols' sawmill. He made it," Batey said, "and returned with one of Nichols' men and a sled and team of horses."

They waited out another blizzard at Nichols' home and were taken out over 18 miles of drifted roads to civilization Monday in two PGE jeeps, assisted by a bulldozer.

Other members of the party were E. C. Lewall, PGE chief engineer, and Lew King, PGE superintendent for Prince George. Lewall is recovering from frostbite in Prince George Hospital and Broadbent has been released after treatment.

Mrs. McAllister's rink is made up of Mrs. Harry Tansley, third; Mrs. R. D. Haddon, second; and Mrs. D. W. Campbell, lead.

Two Children Perish in Quebec Fire

HULL, Que. (BUP)—Two young children died and two firemen were injured in a fire which roared through a paper and tar home today.

The children were Julien, three, and his sister, Louise, two, the only children of Royal and Lucienne Bastien.

Firemen Charles Desmarais and Gerry Roy, from No. 3 station, were injured while fighting the blaze. Both were taken to Sacred Heart Hospital.

The children were playing in their parents' first floor bedroom when their mother, who was with them, smelled smoke. She went downstairs to investigate, and when she saw flames spreading she tried to get back to the children. The thick smoke and flames forced her back down the stairs.

The frantic woman ran outside and called for help. Maurice Simard, 11, who lives next door, ran to her and tried to fight his way up the stairs of the children, but he, too, was forced to flee.

Wade & Wells Decline to Bid On Stewart-Cassiar Road Project

Wade and Wells Ltd. did not enter a bid when tenders were opened today for a section of the controversial Stewart-Cassiar road.

The tenders were the first called on the road, which was worked on by Wade and Wells during the 1954 and 1955 construction seasons on a no-tender, cost-plus and machinery-rental contract.

The project was the object of an intensive investigation by a legislative committee during the recent legislative session.

Three bids were received on the Deas Lake section of the road: General Construction Ltd. bid $335,120, Piggott Construction Co. $375,330, and John A. McIsaac $225,950.

EXPERIENCED

The low bidder, McIsaac, worked on the road prior to the award of the job to Wade and Wells.

The tenders were for a contract similar to that held by Wade & Wells, who were identified during the committee hearings as "old friends" of former mines minister R. E. Sommers. The road is being paid for by the mines department, as a mining assistance road. Testimony also alleged that food was wasted, and construction was lax under Wade & Wells.

Contract calls for construction of from 25 to 30 miles of road along Deas lake, described as "far tougher country" than that previously encountered.

Bids were only for machinery rentals on 18 pieces of equipment required under specifications of the contract.

The government will pay 10 per cent over the cost of labor and food.

Basically the contract will be the same as that held by Wade & Wells, except that no tenders were called on machinery rentals in 1954 and 1955.

Heavy Nixon Support Big Surprise in N.H.

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP)—Senator Estes Kefauver's clear-cut victory in Tuesday's New Hampshire primary has put new punch and power into his drive for the Democratic presidential nomination—but the election's real surprise was Vice-President Richard Nixon.

Nixon received a towering "write-in" vote of 18,367 from 260 of the state's 297 precincts in the vice-presidential preference poll.

In the presidential balloting New Hampshire:

1. Gave Kefauver all 12 Democratic delegates, and their eight convention votes. The Tennessee senator crushed a slate favoring Adlai E. Stevenson.

2. As expected, elected 14 Republican delegates who are backers of President Eisenhower. In addition, the state gave the president a vote of 46,467 in 260 of 297 precincts in the preferential section of the ballot. He was unopposed there.

Though New Hampshire is traditionally Republican, this was the opening round between Kefauver and Stevenson, and now are looking to the Minnesota primary next week as a more decisive test of strength.

President Eisenhower today said he would be happy to have Vice-President Nixon on any political ticket with him. Although throwing his support to Nixon, Eisenhower did not actually say he favors Nixon as his running mate.

Island Bastion Vital to Britain Commons Warned

(UP and Reuters Dispatches)

LONDON (UP)—Prime Minister Anthony Eden demanded the House of Commons vote confidence today in his policy toward Cyprus.

"Our immediate purpose must be to defeat terrorism. Our duty is equally to safeguard the strategic need of our country and our Allies," he told the Commons during debate on a Labor party motion of censure.

Eden declared Britain needs Cyprus as a military base to carry out her Atlantic pact duties, her pledge with the United States and France to keep peace between Israel and the Arab states, and to protect Britain's vital interests, including oil, in the Middle East.

Eden said that in negotiations with exiled Archbishop Makarios, leader of the union-with-Greece movement on Cyprus, "all we asked for, at every stage, was a declaration against the use of violence, and we did not get it."

"I submit, we had no choice but to fulfill our responsibilities or abdicate our authority. We chose the former."

As to the future, the offer made in the white paper (for Cypriot self-government) stands. Our immediate purpose must be to defeat terrorism.

"Our duty is, equally, to safeguard the strategic need of our country and our allies."

"Neither NATO obligations nor the tripartite declaration nor the Baghdad pact nor any agreement in the northeastern area—none can be speedily and effectively carried out unless we have free and unfettered use of Cyprus."

Eden's speech was in answer to Aneurin Bevan's accusation, when opening the debate, that the government was unable to make up its mind what to do about Cyprus.

It was Bevan's debut in Commons as the Labor Party's official spokesman on colonial affairs.

Bevan said the heart of the matter was whether Britain was anxious to have Cyprus as its military base or whether it merely wanted to have a base in Cyprus.

He reasoned that if the island were united with Greece, North Atlantic Treaty Organization bases—both on the Greek mainland and on Cyprus—would not be denied to the western powers.

"For the life of us we cannot understand why it is that negotiations have failed," the Labor spokesman said.

Bevan was cheered loudly by Labor members as he said: "We are doing the name of Great Britain great damage in almost every part of the world."

"We stood alone in 1940, but it was a noble isolation. We are almost standing alone today, but it is an ignoble loneliness we are achieving."

He ended amid a roar of Labor cheers: "Unless the government can do better than it has done Atlantic Treaty Organization it would be better for it to resign."

U.S. Won't Take Sides—Ike

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower declared today the allied interests will be gravely jeopardized if war breaks out in the Middle East or if the Cyprus dispute continues.

The United States is ready to do anything reasonable and practicable to help Greece and Britain reach a solution of the Cyprus dispute. The United States is friendly to both countries despite their present argument over Cyprus. Co-operation of Britain and Greece is essential to the success of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

But the problem is very tough and complicated and a solution is up to the participants.

The President firmly emphasized that the United States is ready to do anything to help in the British-Greek dispute over the British-held island of Cyprus. But he made it clear the country will not take sides.

Earlier, the British foreign office was reported flabbergasted by the expression of "sympathetic concern" which U.S. Ambassador Cavendish Cannon gave to the Greek government and a state department spokesman's remark that the U.S. is urging Britain to resume its negotiations with the Cypriots.

London officials said both actions suggested the United States was siding with the Cypriots and Greece in the dispute. Apparently this feeling was only somewhat allayed by the state department's clarifying statement Tuesday night. In the statement, the department emphasized it is merely using its "good offices" to "assist its friends" in reaching a settlement. It insisted it is not taking sides.

Eden Sends Secret Message To Jordan King

AMMAN, Jordan (Reuters)—Sir Alec Kirkbridge, former British ambassador in Jordan, and a close friend of the Jordan royal family, today delivered to King Hussein a sealed message from Prime Minister Eden.

Kirkbridge, who arrived here by air Tuesday night from London, saw the king and Prime Minister Samir Rifai.

Eden's message was a reply to King Hussein's explanation of his reasons for asking Lt. Gen. Sir John Glubb to resign as Arab Legion commander, his policy towards Britain and the present status of British officers in the Jordanian army.

Australia Increases Import Tax

CANBERRA (Reuters)—The Australian government today raised taxes on imported goods ranging from jewelry to automobiles in an anti-inflation move designed to scale down foreign buying more in line with the country's foreign selling.

Prime Minister Robert Menzies also announced that bank overdraft rates will be increased from 5 to an average of 5½ per cent and the deposit interest rate increased 1 per cent. This was aimed at tightening credit to impose further buying restriction.

He also put another 5 per cent on the company tax.

Excise and customs duties on tobacco, alcoholic beverages and gasoline were increased sharply.

The tax on automobiles was increased from 16 2/3 per cent to 30 per cent and on commercial vehicles and motorcycles from 12½ to 16 2/3 per cent.

There have been 43 per cent more cases of chicken pox, mumps and rubella (German measles) in Saanich, Victoria and Esquimalt so far this year than were noted throughout 1955, it was reported today.

Saanich health officials said in Saanich 542 cases of chicken the past week or two as many as pox were recorded so far this half of the pupils in some class-year while in all of 1955 only 474 rooms have been absent at the cases were noted.

Prospects Dim Mar. 20 Budget Will Cut Taxes

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Harris will unveil his 1956-57 budget at 5 p.m. (Victoria time) March 20, and though the economy is showing signs of continuing a spectacular advance, prospects of major tax cuts grow dimmer by the hour.

Canadians may find Mr. Harris will shave some tolls slightly while retaining his grip on the bulk of taxes to help balance the government's books and to prevent consumers from spending too much at a time when inflation threatens.

Well-informed sources said Tuesday chances of big tax cuts may be better next year when the current economic expansion may taper off slightly. The Liberals may also be more inclined to sweeten the pot next year when it is expected another general election will be fought.

Canadian Veterans' Association of the United Kingdom has petitioned the Canadian government to give Canadian ex-servicemen in Britain the same benefits as those in Canada.

The resolution proposed by Brighton branch of the organization, was carried with another at the annual meeting of CVAUK, attended by 100 delegates and guests last month in Brighton.

The other resolution asked for some Canadian organization to be approached with a view to helping parents of Canadians killed in the 1942 Dieppe raid to attend memorial ceremonies at Dieppe.

Deputy high commissioner for Canada, Frederick Hudd, was elected president, replacing Lieut.-Col. Victor Jones.

New Atom Arms Talks Slated With Russia

LONDON (UP)—The United States, in what appeared to be a major switch in policy, has agreed to "examine" nuclear disarmament here next week with her Western Allies and Russia, official sources said today.

If the past the United States with its allies has declined to discuss nuclear disarmament with the Soviets until the problems of inspection and controls are satisfactorily solved.

The West's discussions will be limited to methods and goals and will not involve commitments on future atomic weapons at this stage, the sources said. Officials said Harold E. Stassen, disarmament representative for President Eisenhower, had agreed with his allies to discuss the scope and goals of nuclear disarmament and previous disarmament plans simultaneously.

Stassen is currently aligning American disarmament plans with those of Britain, France and Canada in private talks in London.

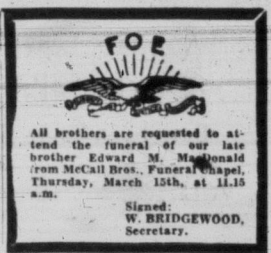

On Monday the four Western powers have scheduled a new round of disarmament negotiations with the Soviets here within the framework of the United Nations disarmament subcommittee.

Official western quarters said there was "more optimism" now about prospects for the forthcoming talks than at any previous time.

Heated Debate Looms On Gas Pipeline Plan

(From Times News Services)

Debate on the financing of the $350,000,000 trans-Canada natural gas pipeline—looming as perhaps the biggest of the session—is scheduled to start Thursday.

So far, the Progressive Conservative and CCF parties have indicated they plan vigorous opposition to the proposal where by the federal and Ontario governments would build the tough northern Ontario section of the 2,200-mile line.

John Diefenbaker (PC, Prince Albert) has said the defence production filibuster of the 1955 session will look like a "skirmish" alongside planned Conservative opposition to the pipeline legislation.

CCF leader Coldwell has said repeatedly his party wants the pipeline built by the federal government as a public utility.

Finance Minister Harris, said Tuesday night that debate will start Thursday on a resolution preparatory to the introduction of a government bill setting up the Northern Ontario Pipe Line Crown Corporation.

The corporation would built with Ontario assistance the tough 675-mile section of the pipeline to deliver Alberta natural gas to Ontario and Quebec markets. The section from the Manitoba border to Kapuskasing, Ont., will cost an estimated $118,000,000.

Farm Parity Prices Rejected

An opposition proposal for farm parity prices, linking the returns on agricultural products to prices of other commodities, has been rejected.

The Liberal majority voted solidly Tuesday night against the parity move after Agriculture Minister Gardiner said that system of price support, unsatisfactory in the United States, would be unsound in Canada.

A Progressive Conservative motion urging parity price legislation this session was defeated 146 to 63 after a two-day debate. A vote of 144 to 64 minutes earlier turned down a CCF amendment stating the plan should ensure farmers a fair share of the national income.

The motions, technically want-of-confidence moves, were backed by all three opposition parties and two Quebec independents, Paul Gagnon (Chicoutimi) and Raoul Poulin (Beauport).

Liberal Senator Bucks Divorce Bill

A Nova Scotia Liberal said Tuesday night it's not beneath the dignity of the Senate to handle divorce cases from Quebec and Newfoundland.

Senator John J. Kinley made the statement in the upper house as he opposed a bill to take divorce cases from the two provinces out of Parliament and place them under jurisdiction of the Exchequer Court at Ottawa.

The Senate is dealing with life in processing divorce cases and could not be better employed, he said. It was dealing with a social problem which was more messy than many tasks performed by doctors and welfare workers.

"The Senate is doing its job well and its dignity is not being hurt," he said.

He was replying to an earlier statement by Senator Nancy Hodges (L-British Columbia) that the Senate is being brought into disrepute by handling divorces.

Senator Kinley was the first senator to oppose second reading of a bill sponsored by Senator Walter Aseltine (PC-Saskatchewan) which would give the Exchequer Court jurisdiction to hear Quebec and Newfoundland cases. The two provinces do not have divorce courts.

Why doesn't Saskatchewan's CCF government socialize the province's beer business and use the money to help its farmers? This question, with well-brewed irony, was asked Tuesday by Agriculture Minister Gardiner.

It seemed to him that CCF members had not been so keen on getting things socialized as they sometimes claimed they were.

Only one organization in Saskatchewan produced beer. It sold all its output to the provincial government. Yet the government had not taken over the industry. Why not?

If it did, he said, the beer would provide more money for use in assisting farmers than socialization of any other industry in the province.

Senator Thomas Reid of British Columbia said Tuesday night in the Senate that he has been cut off the mailing list of the Russian embassy in Ottawa. Earlier this session, the Liberal senator complained he was being

$500,000 Expansion At Bamberton Plant

B.C. Cement Company will be able to use larger trucks to finish this year on a long equipment.

Mr. Tomlin stated that the B.C. Cement Company has large supplies of limestone both at Cobble Hill and at Texada Island, and more at Blubber Bay and Davies Bay.

The labor force at Bamberton will be increased slightly. The company now employs 250 persons directly and 1,000 indirectly. It also purchases 100,000 tons of island coal each year.

Approximately $1,500,000 will be spent on the mainland, involving a dock, cement silos, bagging machine, warehouses and trucking facilities.

"This does not mean that we are planning to move from Bamberton," Mr. Tomlin said. "We are expanding on the mainland to provide a direct service for mainland buyers from the new depot which will supplyment existing scow shipments for bulk and sacked cement from the Bamberton works."

"No cement manufacturing equipment is included in our trucks off the highway and we mainland expansion."

Petlock Testifies In His Own Defence

MELVILLE, Sask. (CP)—John Petlock, 36, charged with murder in the shooting death of his brother at Fenwood, Sask., last Aug. 29, testified Tuesday in his own defence.

Petlock was arrested in Edmonton last Labor Day after discovery of five bodies, including Michael's, on his mother's farm. The others were those of his mother, Mrs. Mary Petlock, 72, Michael's wife, Angelina, 21, and their daughters, Dianne, 3, and Michaelene, 11 months.

The accused, speaking softly but clearly, testified for more than an hour. He related details of his life on the Fenwood farm where he was born until three days before Michael's death.

He was the third defence witness. The crown had already called 48 witnesses and entered more than 80 exhibits.

Under questioning by defence counsel Emmett M. Hall of Saskatoon, Petlock told of family arguments and of his treatment by other members of the family which the lawyer had previously described as "persecution."

Ex-FBI Agent New Mayor Of Seattle

180,000 Turn Out For Record Poll

SEATTLE (CP) — New faces appear on the Washington state political scene today in the wake of Tuesday's state-wide municipal elections.

While the voting followed form in most of the 28 cities and 177 towns where balloting was conducted, voters carried brooms into polling places of some municipalities, including Seattle.

Bond issues and civic improvements on ballots won general approval, however.

Some 180,000 voters—a record for municipal election—gave Seattle a new mayor and two new city councilmen.

Ending one of the hottest mayoralty campaigns in years, Seattle named Gordon S. Clinton, 35-year-old attorney and former FBI agent, to succeed Allan Pomeroy, 49, mayor since 1952.

Clinton, a newcomer to politics, held an 8-100-vote bulge over Pomeroy in unofficial returns from the city's 1,067 precincts.

COUNCILLORS BEATEN

Newcomers named to the council were Paul J. Alexander, a weekly newspaper publisher, and Floyd C. Miller, a Seattle legislator, who unseated long-time councilmen Alfred R. Rochester and Robert H. Harlin. Mrs. Harlan H. Edwards and M. B. Mitchell were returned for another term.

Seattle also approved a sewer service fee referendum, a special library bond issue and a special kindergarten levy.

Tacoma had its big election last month when a proposed change of government was defeated. Only 28,701 turned out Tuesday to re-elect most of the incumbents and approved a million-dollar excess millage levy.

Olympia, gave a second term to woman mayor Amanda Smith.

At Yakima, incomplete returns gave Carl H. Behnke an edge over incumbent Mayor Gilbert W. Burns. A charter amendment to change the city government from commission to council-manager also was ahead.

BCE-Gas Workers' Dispute Goes To Conciliation

A wage dispute between the B.C. Electric and about 300 gas plant workers—26 in Victoria and the remainder in Vancouver—will go to a conciliation board, it was disclosed Tuesday.

Government conciliation officer Reg Clements failed to reach settlement between the company and Local 213 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (I.B.E.W.), that represents gas workers in the two cities.

Wage demands have not been disclosed. All negotiations are being conducted in Vancouver.

Mr. Clements is still attempting to settle the dispute between the B.C. Electric and its 1,500 office employees, members of the I.B.E.W. Office Employee's Union, Local 378, who want a 15 per cent wage increase and other concessions.

Jellyfish Signals Pilchard's Return?

Prevalence of the Portuguese man-of-war on the west coast of Vancouver Island has given rise to conjecture that pilchards and tuna might return to neighboring waters.

Not a warship, but a jellyfish with its own tiny float and sail, the Portuguese man-of-war is a warm-water organism, and its arrival at one time heralded pilchard and tuna runs. The latter also are warm-water fish.

About 12 years ago pilchards vanished from west coast waters, leaving a profitable industry stranded. The Portuguese man-of-war has not been seen for at least 10 years.

Today, however, they are reported in schools miles long at Long Beach, on the Island's west coast. Fishermen hope they are indicative of rising water temperatures and a revival of pilchard and tuna fishing.

The Portuguese man-of-war is related to the vellela, a similar marine animal, that turned up on Beacon Hill Park beaches last week. The little warship stings, however, and can achieve upward and downward travel through regulation of its floats.

Frost and Taxes

THE ONTARIO GOVERNMENT has every right to reject the Federal Government's taxation offer and collect its own corporation taxes. This apparently will mean that business in Ontario must pay two separate taxes on its profits, one to Ottawa, one to Toronto.

The total taxes thus paid necessarily must be more than the present single tax collected by the Federal Government. Otherwise Mr. Frost's plan to increase his provincial revenues is meaningless. He wants a larger share of the corporation tax field than Ottawa is prepared to grant. He will get what he wants, and is entitled to get it, by imposing a provincial tax on top of a federal tax.

It is difficult to understand Mr. Frost, however, when he says that the Federal Government's policy, known as Plan C, is leading the country to the brink of economic disaster. On the contrary, the sort of counter-proposals advanced by Mr. Frost are more likely to produce that result.

For Mr. Frost is asking the Federal Government—that is to say the taxpayers of Canada at large—to undertake gigantic new burdens. First, he is largely responsible, through his pressure on Ottawa, for a national hospital insurance scheme which will cost the federal treasury something like $300 millions a year in the beginning and much more later on.

Second, he demands—in income, corporation and estate taxes—$292 millions a year instead of the $192 millions assured him under Plan C. If Ottawa were to grant these demands in the case of Ontario it would be compelled, of course, to pay corresponding amounts to all the other provinces.

Mr. Frost asks, in fact, an increase of about 50 per cent in the Federal Government's offer to the provinces. Since Ottawa now proposes to allow them some $640 millions a year, the extra cost, under the Frost formula, would be about $300 millions.

Such figures can be understood only when they are set against the Federal Government's present revenues and tax rates. As will be seen from Mr. Harris' last budget speech (Hansard, page 2740), the Federal Government estimated its revenue from personal income tax this year at $1.1 billions. If Mr. Frost had his way, the increased costs undertaken by the Federal Government—or rather its losses in revenue—would amount roughly to a rise of a third in the income tax. Or if the Federal Government made up its losses by taxing business it would have to raise the corporation tax by about a third.

It is clear, therefore, that Mr. Frost is asking nothing less than a huge total increase in the operating costs of national government, paid by the taxpayers. No Federal Government with any sense of responsibility can possibly undertake these burdens, on top of a hospital insurance scheme and other automatically-increasing expenditures in other fields.

But there is nothing to prevent Mr. Frost imposing new burdens on his own Ontario people, and this apparently he intends to do by double-taxing business.

His example is not likely to be imitated in other provinces. Premier Bennett, it is satisfactory to note, has indicated no such intentions and his attempt to reach satisfactory and friendly agreement with Ottawa is to be warmly commended.

Action Stations!

ONCE AGAIN IT BECOMES necessary to remind American authors that Canada had a Navy—and an active one—in the Battle of the Atlantic.

This somewhat testy observation is inspired by publication of "The Atlantic Battle Won," a new history of U.S. naval operations by Samuel Eliot Morison. Like so many of his literary predecessors, Mr. Morison (who should know better) defines the Atlantic as an exclusively American-British pond and the fleets of these two great countries as the scourge of 699 Nazi submarines sunk.

What are the facts? The facts are that Canada, between the years 1939 and 1944, put 400 fighting ships into the Battle of the Atlantic, and 1,000,000 men and women into naval uniform. By 1943, this country had assumed 44 per cent of the convoy duty with its "sheep-dog" fleet; by the following year, when British and U.S. ships were detached for the Normandy invasion, Canada took over sole responsibility for shepherding the men and munitions across the ocean.

In the course of this battle, 1,000 Canadian sailors lost their lives. In the matter of submarine warfare, Canada gave a little better than she got. The Germans sank about 24 Canadian fighting ships and Canada accounted for 27 Nazi submarines.

This, to be sure, is but a small fraction of the total number destroyed. But Canada's chief job in the war at sea was to get the supplies across, and this she did superbly well. Her performance was all the more remarkable in the light of the fact that she built her fleet almost from a "standing start," and with a force comprised of many thousands of men and women who had never seen the sea before in their lives.

Trouble in the South

WHEN THE UNITED STATES Supreme Court ruled that it is unconstitutional for any state to segregate Negro from white children in a public school it re-opened one of the oldest and most divisive issues in the nation's life. It also launched a controversy which, as latest events show, will not be settled for a long time.

This week the South expressed its protest against the Supreme Court ruling through the organs of politics. Not some irresponsible group of agitators but 19 United States senators and 77 members of the House of Representatives signed a statement pledging themselves to use "all lawful means" to secure a reversal of the Court's historic decision.

They declared that the ban on racial segregation was "a clear abuse of judicial power" and that the Court members, in their unanimous verdict, used "naked judicial power and substituted their personal political and social idea for the established law of the land."

These are grave, indeed shocking words to come from the elected leaders of 11 southern states. And, to underline their determination,

Mr. Herridge Tells a Tale

MR. H. W. HERRIDGE, THE popular CCF member for Kootenay West, has told the House of Commons a fish story which should be a strong contender for the annual international liars' prize. Unfortunately, however, Mr. Herridge's tale does not qualify for it happens to be true.

As reported in the solemn print of Hansard, Mr. Herridge addressed the House, with a straight face, as follows:

"Then we have in the minister of mines and technical surveys (Mr. Prudham) a minister who practises what he preaches. I was told recently that last summer he was out fishing with a party that caught a considerable quantity of fish. After using all they could in the camp that evening they had a number left over and then the instinct of the minister in support of the principles of conservation began to work. . . . The minister practised artificial respiration on a number of fish, brought them back to life, put them in the water, and they went away to be caught another day. 'This is a true story.'"

No doubt, no doubt. But Mr. Prudham's scientific miracle has a fatal defect as a fish story—the defect of truth—or has it?

And Everywhere That Foster Went

Chips

BY DAVID BROCK

A TWELVE-YEAR-OLD girl tells me that bantam hens make very bad pets. "Linda Appleby had some, and when she cooked them they all burnt."

It's enough to break a pet-lover's heart. "Brother and sister, I bid you beware; an overdone pet, is worse than rare." I should think eggs would make reliable pets, you can hard-boil them.

Let us speak of eggs. In a recent book on housekeeping in the 18th century there are various recipes, and one of these calls for eight eggs, and in a small burst of pointlessness, a reviewer in The Times Literary Supplement says this is nothing in the way of eggs. (Who said it was?) He says the cookery book of the famous Mrs. Glasse calls for 100 eggs in one recipe. Well, who says it doesn't? And what about it?

I have an old Scots cookery book (Mrs. Frazer) which calls for 200 eggs in a recipe, but without bothering to look it up, I can guarantee that it calls for huge amounts of other things as well. Unless you know the proportions, the actual amount of one ingredient is meaningless.

I HAVE seen an old Roman recipe for very good mortar, to stick stone walls together with. It calls for thousands upon thousands of eggs. But this doesn't mean it would hold only a few stones together. Plenty of other things went into the mixture too, and made enough mortar for a tremendous amount of wall (which is still as good as new, and very well stuck). It might make a housewife jump to find a bit of paper starting off "Take half a million eggs." She wouldn't know it was a recipe for building Rome, where half a million eggs are not laid in a day.

Take One Dozen Eggs . . .

I was rather touched by the belief of a Vancouver columnist that one dozen eggs always go into one cake. I know a few columnists who lead wicked lives (or try their best to), and a few who are prosperous, and a few who are certified as 100 per cent impractical. But this is the first time I've heard of the three qualities combined in one columnist. To put a dozen eggs into every cake that lightens his life . . . no, I'm sorry, I don't believe it. I prefer to think he is out of touch with the facts of cake, rather than out of touch with morality, economics, and good old Mental Health.

THIS, by the way, may be the first time you have read about Mental Health in connection with the use and abuse of the common egg of the common hen. But it was bound to come, sooner or later. You can't switch on a radio or a TV set, or pick up a magazine, without running into Mental Health in the queerest places. Places which (with all due respect to Mental Health) are really the craziest places. The CBC is peculiarly obsessed with the stuff. How can you be obsessed with anything and retain Mental Health? That's a good question . . . I shall bring it up at my next forum.

If you want to be a feverish little old script-writer, then you can't do better than jump on the Mental Health wagon. It's quite easy. Dramatize. By dramatization, I do not mean you have to write a play. No, you just have people called John and Mary and such, and they talk dialogue. It can be as dull as you like.

Mental Health

INSTEAD of having a lecturer tell the radio audience that many jobs are lost through lack of Mental Health (which, by the way, is only a half-truth, because obviously many jobs are held down tight by men and women in the last stages of Benson's Coma, Hackenschmidt's Frenzy, and Delusions of Everything) . . . well, instead of having a lecturer explain that, you have a dramatic character named John and he comes home and tells his dramatic wife named Mary that he has lost his job again.

"Which one?" she says. "O John, not the new one?" John nods his head affirmatively, up and down, while also shaking it sideways deprecatingly. If this head-work is done on radio, not TV, the Sound Man can fix you up . . . he knows all about Mental Health too, though it isn't for that he became a Sound Man . . . on the contrary. At that moment Junior comes home. It is customary to call a boy Johnny, in a dramatized version of anything, but in this case you have called the father John, so you must use a little technique here and call the boy Junior instead. Stagecraft.

To Feel Loved

JUNIOR explains, in playground slang about 20 years out of date, as half-remembered by middle-aged script-writers, especially female ones, that he has just heard a wonderful program about Mental Health. (Chance here for a play-within-a-play.) And he wonders if Pop's trouble isn't this: maybe Pop gets fired because he doesn't gratify his Basic Social Need to feel appreciated. Pop laughs bitterly, and says it's the other way round . . . he feels unappreciated after being fired, not before. (Plenty of domestic business throughout this script, please . . . cooking, dish-washing, etc. . . . makes the people seem alive and helps drive message home.)

Junior says Pop has the wrong approach. If he just goes round the plant feeling loved and appreciated, people will be glad to have him around and won't fire him. Pop says he read in a psychiatric textbook that he shouldn't lie to himself like that. Junior says "No, Pop, you can make it true." Tears of joy. Sound man eats toast. Oh . . . we were talking about eggs just now. Well, the Sound Man can eat eggs too . . . John and Mary and Junior can afford eggs now, thanks to Junior.

Mr. Luff's Rejoinder

In reply to Mr. Armstrong's may I remind him that Richard Ricardo and other writers years before Marx used the term "Labor produce all wealth." But they could not figure out just how profits came about.

Years later Marx in his analysis of capitalist economy stated "that commodities on the average exchange at their value, and labor power was the only commodity that produced a value greater than its own value," giving us the key to all profits.

"Mac" considers it fair for the labor government to give four for one, the facts are, when offered bonds carrying three per cent, the bank stockholders, claimed they had received twelve per cent for years, and insisted on the same now. The labor government yielded, hence these stockholders will continue to draw this high interest until 1966 when they will receive four hundred pounds for each one hundred invested. This is typical C.C.F. socialism.

Regarding the 1945 dock strike my reports do not mention that the Communists inspired, but it does show clearly how the dockers suffered a big reduction in wages by the government cancellation of war-time agreements, and refusal of an increase in wages. The strike was unofficial, as the unions were not allowed to strike in a government-owned industry. Also, did not the labor government threaten the underground railway men in 1924 with a state of emergency? Socialism has nothing to do with statism and its regimentation, hence Mac should get his facts straight, and not let his enthusiasm overcome his better judgment.

Fluoridation

In a news item in your issue of March 7, page 17, it was reported that Dr. R. R. McIntyre of the Canadian Dental Association declared that none of the "alleged dental and medical men in the United States who are opposed to fluoridation" had been able to produce any scientific evidence and "are people of no standards whatsoever."

From this it would appear that Dr. McIntyre is unaware that the hundreds of qualified medical men holding adverse opinions on fluoridation include such distinguished and active opponents as Dr.

Position of the Indian

For years churches on one hand have been preaching that "Red and Yellow, Black and White, all are precious in His sight."

Then in another breath make bold to say that we are not the real Indians.

The ones in the east such as the Hurons, Iroquois, etc. alone are to be recognized as the aristocrats among the native inhabitants of Canada. This was taught in the Indian Residential School at Alberni in 1926. Later, the St. Catherine School paper branded Chief Tsosalem a criminal for being patriotic. Later, a Mr. Gough wrote a history of British Columbia and in it he made bold to say that the province is predominantly British, then enumerated the various other na-

Geo. L. Waldbott, MD, FACP, FAAA, FACA, and Dr. Leo Spira, MD, both of whom are reputable members of the American Medical Association itself, and have spent years in experimental research on fluorine poisoning.

Perhaps Dr. McIntyre has overlooked that the fluoridation proponents quote the AMA repeatedly as being "100 per cent in favor" of this mass medication.

Monkeys and Vaccine

We should know that all evolutionary concepts are deliberately designed to obliterate the knowledge that we know good and evil, wherein we can do violence to our conscience with impunity.

May I present a specific instance? In the matter of Salk vaccine for polio. Will you go and capture a monkey, subject the helpless animal to loss of freedom; to the suffering incident you introduce disease into its body, and shadows of the dark ages, and malpractice, go through all the hideous ramifications of procuring a disease vaccine, and having it injected into your child, on the premise that the spectre of crippling polio might attack the youngster? What of the moral question? The Great Physician who gives us life, what are His thoughts?

We pretend to be Christians! Shall we go to church and thank God for an ample supply of monkeys? So why does disease; why does evil exist in God's domain? Please let us be advised that no lasting good can come from torturing animals to secure our own wellbeing.

Contrast

I thought your weekend supplement proved such a contrast to the attitude of the Alabama varsity students: (1) The Queen smiling and shaking hands with dark races; (2) The Canadian friendliness and praise of the U.S. Negro athlete, Rollie Miles, in Edmonton.

Don't you think you should send a few copies down south? I've always found the Canadians the most friendly towards "aliens" (an awful term!) of any nationality, color or creed.

"Tolerance" is a very important characteristic that everyone of us should acquire.

How You Gonna Keep 'Em...?

BY JOSEPH AND STEWART

IN the old American folk recitation, "The Senator From Arkansas," one of the climactic moments begins with indignant questions: "Mr. Speaker, Sir, why did Rome fall? I'm asking you, Mr. Speaker, why did the grand imperial city, a-settin' in her glory upon her seven hills, collapse into hifjus ruin and teetotal decay?"

The answer provided by the orator is both unprintable and incorrect. But his questions are not out of place at the moment, because a part of the real answer has a pretty direct bearing on the debate on the Farm Bill that dragged its weary way along in the Senate in recent days.

The decay of Rome quite certainly began when the hardy farm-citizens ceased to be able to maintain themselves and their families by farming their small holdings. In hardy more than a generation, over great areas of Italy, the family-sized farms were swept away. They made way for vast, consolidated, slave-operated, absentee-capitalist holdings that were the equivalent in those days of what we now call "industrialized farms."

'Ill Fares the Land'

This same social change, whenever it has come over any great nation of the past, has invariably marked a beginning of an ending. All around might be the evidences of the most hectic prosperity, except on the little farms. But when the little farms went, it was as though the nation's healthy roots in native soil were stricken and withered; and in the end the nation was stricken too.

The warnings of history need to be remembered, at the moment, for the rather simple reason that there would be no really grave American farm problem if it were not for the plight of the family-sized farms. Not all the big farms are prosperous, of course. But almost all of them can take care of themselves, and a great many of them are still enormously prosperous, like the industrialized rice growers recently described in this space, or the rather numerous industrialized cotton-growers who can profitably produce cotton at eight to nine cents a bale, but are now selling their cotton for 31 cents.

Small Farm Problem

The people who are not prosperous are the folk on the family-sized farms. They are so unprosperous, in fact, that this nation is virtually beginning to be divided into two nations. A single statistic tells the story. Per capita farm income has now declined to the level of $860 a year, whereas the per capita income of Americans off the farm now stands at the level of $1,922. Farm folk are much less than half as well off as other folk in America.

If this condition persists for very long, it can produce only one result. All the ambitious, able-bodied members of farm families will do what the Roman farmers did. They will give up the life they have been trained to. They will pull up stakes. They will go to seek better opportunities elsewhere.

There are plenty of signs already that this is beginning to happen. More and more very large farms are appearing in every agricultural state of this country. The number of family-sized farms is everywhere declining, and in some states it is declining with alarming rapidity. The total number of farms in Iowa, for instance, is estimated to have dropped by more than 10 per cent between 1930 and 1954.

In Iowa, moreover, they call their hogs "the mortgage-lifters." But with pork down from well over $20 a hundredweight to a current price of $11.50 a hundredweight, a farmer whose hundred finished hogs might have fetched $4,500 only a year or so ago, will now get only $2,300. No wonder reports of an accelerated drift from the farms come from Iowa, as from most other farm states.

Wrong Diagnosis

Meanwhile, none of the farm doctors seem to be prescribing for the real disease. Secretary Benson is obviously right in arguing that high-rigid farm parities are the kind of cure that only makes the disease itself more dangerous in the end. He has been courageous in fighting this prescription, and the Democrats, who prescribed rigid parities, have not fought for them with real faith.

On the other hand, when Under-Secretary of Agriculture True D. Moss says, as he has said, that small farms will have to go to the wall because large farms are more economically viable, he makes Secretary Benson's protestation of attachment to family-sized farms sound pretty hollow. This, clearly, is the basic thing that arouses the farmers against Benson.

In the end, no doubt, the real point will have to be recognized, that family-sized farms have a very great social value, which makes a national investment to sustain independent farming a paying proposition for the long term. When that time comes, a distinction will somehow have to be made, between the big operators who have no claim to national support, and the family-sized farmers who still constitute this nation's roots in the American soil, over-urbanized as we unfortunately are. PUSSY'S IN THE WELL

Meat-Selling Farmers Facing Squeeze-Out

Local Producers Cut Out by New By-Law Because No Inspection Centres Set-Up

Local farmers may be squeezed out of the meat market in Victoria and Esquimalt, May 1, by terms of a new meat inspection by-law.

The by-law, recently passed by the city and under consideration by Esquimalt, was authorized by recent provincial legislation.

It rules that no meat can be sold within the municipal limits which has not first been inspected and stamped by provincial inspectors.

However, under the provincial regulations, inspection centres must be set up. Two such inspection centres had been proposed for the Victoria area.

NO MOVE

But city sanitary inspector Elwood Gropp told the Union Board of Health Tuesday: "So far no one has indicated a desire to set up an inspection centre."

"If the province won't set up a depot, we are excluding local farmers from the local market," said board chairman G. K. Sammon.

All meat coming into the municipalities through large packing houses is inspected by either federal or provincial health authorities. Less than 5 per cent of the meat consumed here is from local farmers.

FARMERS HIT

If the government does not agree to set up an inspection centre, the health board will carry out the enforcement of the by-law, in effect halting meat sales by district farmers. Minimum fine for sale of uninspected meat is $25.

Fabulous Egans Quit TV With $32,000

NEW YORK (AP)—The Egan brothers have taken their winnings and called it quits, and a store clerk has replaced them at the $32,000 level in television quizdom.

Robert Edward Bennett, 48, a southerner from Georgia, answered the $32,000 question in his chosen Abraham Lincoln category Tuesday night on the CBS show, The $64,000 Question. He will be back on the program next Tuesday night to announce whether he will try for the grand prize.

The Egan brothers—James L. Egan, 40, and William E. Egan, 43, of Hartford, Conn.—said they planned to pay all their bills out of their $32,000, won by answering questions in any and all categories in previous appearances on the program.

They would have faced a question on popular music Tuesday night.

Noted Orchestra Leader Charged As Smuggler

Australia Customs
Grab Sex Material

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—A summons was served Tuesday night on Sir Eugene Goossens, noted orchestra conductor, charging him with bringing prohibited imports into Australia. He was ordered to appear Friday before a special court dealing with customs violations.

Customs officials and vice squad detectives questioned Goossens for seven hours Friday on his return from a European tour. Later they seized about 1,100 photographs, three books dealing with sex matters and four soft rubber half-face masks found in his luggage.

Goossens announced Monday he had been relieved temporarily at his own request of his duties as conductor of the Sydney Symphony Orchestra and director of the New South Wales state conservatory of music. He said he made the request because of bad health.

New Library Drive Launched by Nanaimo

NANAIMO—Hopes that British Columbia's centenary might lead to construction of a new library building at Nanaimo were expressed here Tuesday night by Nanaimo branch, B.C. Historical Society.

The group went on record as being in full support of a suggestion made by Willard Ireland, provincial archivist, that "some permanent public structure result from centenary celebrations in 1958."

Mr. Ireland said at a recent meeting here that he hoped every district in B.C. might finish up the celebration with structures of their own.

Nothing to show
He cited instances where centennial celebrations had been held in the United States, "and when it was all over there wasn't a thing to show for it, except perhaps a lot of bills."

A suggestion by William Barclough, president, that a suitable public library building would be an excellent memorial, was endorsed by the group. "We understand special grants from centenary funds will be available to assist in such a project," he said. He added that "the board of management of the Vancouver

Poll of Police Urged to Settle Post as Leader

MONTREAL (CP)—A former chairman of the city executive committee here has suggested members of the Montreal police department hold a "free and secret vote immediately" to decide who should lead them while the matter of who is the rightful director is being settled.

J. M. Savignac, a city councillor, said in a statement that either police director J. Albert Langlois, now on leave of absence, or assistant director Pacific Plante should be instituted by members of the force as interim department head without delay "from a point of view of peace and order."

Steady pleasing tone, good attack and on the whole excellent intonation was achieved by 13-year-old Kenneth Muir, playing the orchestra's most temperamental instrument, the French horn.

Enjoyable performances were given by two instrumental ensembles; a string group consisting of violinists John and William Oulton, Bette Davis and Sandra Lee with Iace Norris at the piano, and a trio in which John Sawyer was violinist with Stephen Morris, flute, and Joanne Dawson, piano.

Natural Talent Abounds at Recital

Sound Training, Intelligent Approach
Insures Fine Musical Future for City

By AUDREY S.T.D. JOHNSON

Promising young artists from the junior and intermediate groups of the Victoria Musical Art Society were presented in recital Tuesday night at the Empress Hotel.

So much natural talent coupled with every evidence of sound training and an intelligent approach gave solid insurance on this city's musical future.

There was variety in the program although the piano was the dominant instrument. But while welcoming the French horn, the chamber ensembles and junior choral singing, one regretted the total absence of violin solo work and vocal solos.

SCARCITY
This, it is understood, is not the fault of the program planners but came about through scarcity of performers in these categories in the junior and intermediate groups.

Speech art was represented in a delightful scene from "Alice Through the Looking Glass," directed by Olive Garrood. This was a refreshing variation in the program, with lovely clear young voices and clean diction being supplemented by direct, effervescent qualities of acting.

The charming "Alice" was Lynne Grainger and the "Red Queen" Sharon MacKay. The latter substituted for Prudence Cox who was ill, and did a most competent, pleasing piece of work. "Flowers" were Mary MacKay, Jean MacKay, Pamela Fortye, Jane Fortye, Joanne Lemming, Mary Alton, Jinnie Wattie, Lynda Colbert, Diana Gilbert and Marilyn Mair.

WELL CHOSEN
Sweet, true tone, natural and unforced, good rhythm and significant words characterized the singing of the Musical Art Children's Choir, conducted by Boyce Gaddes and accompanied by Joyce Butler. The selections, including Dunhill's "Brave Old Duke of York" and Young's "The Paper Boat," were well chosen and well received by the large audience.

Singing Star Dies

BURLINGAME, Calif. (AP)—Grace La Rue Hamilton, former Ziegfeld Folies singing star of the 20s, died Monday at the age of 75. A headliner in musical comedies and Broadway revues as "Grace La Rue," she was reputed to have been the first woman to earn $1,500 a week. She was the widow of Hale Hamilton, former star of the silent movies.

BILLY ROSE TO WED MILTON BERLE'S 'EX'

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Daily News says Broadway showman Billy Rose and blonde Joyce Mathews will be married April 2 at his Mount Kisco, N.Y., estate.

The News says Miss Mathews, ex-wife of Milton Berle, announced the date Monday. She is in Doctors' Hospital, recovering from an emergency appendectomy.

Rose, 56, was formerly married to the late Fanny Brice and swim star Eleanor Holm. Miss Holm named Miss Mathews in her suit for divorce from Rose.

Miss Mathews, 36, slashed a wrist and threatened to jump from Rose's apartment in July, 1951.

Bruins Pass Leafs

Still Need Help To Keep Playoff Berth

Boston 4, Detroit 0

By The Canadian Press
Boston Bruins, up and down like a yo-yo in this year's National Hockey League race, spun up near the top of the string again Tuesday night.

The hot and cold Bruins renewed their playoff hopes when they handed the Detroit Red Wings a 4-0 lacing at Boston and, in the bargain, gave an unintentional helping hand to New York Rangers.

The victory shoved the Bruins back into fourth place, the last Stanley Cup playoff berth, by the skinny margin of one point over the equally anxious Toronto Maple Leafs, who were idle and saw themselves backed into a corner.

BOON TO RANGERS

The incidental shot in the arm given to New York Rangers was included in the victory over Detroit. Had Wings won Tuesday's game, Rangers would have virtually no chance of regaining second place from Detroit. The surprising New York club trails Detroit by two points with three games left to play. Former Detroit players scored three of the four Boston goals, with Real Chevrelis and Vic Stasiuk getting the first two in the opening period, while Jerry Toppazzini accounted for the final goal in the third. Johnny Peirson also scored in the second frame.

Another former Detroit, goalie Terry Sawchuk, added insult to injury with a 31-save, shutout performance. It was his ninth whitewash of the season.

Boston edged a point ahead of Toronto, 59 to 58, with a game to go against last-place Chicago Sunday. Toronto has two games remaining. The final Stanley Cup berth is at stake.

Pearson's goal at 13:22 of the middle period, a 15-footer which bounced off and over the glove of goalie Glenn Hall, was disputed by the goalie. Hall argued vehemently that Stasiuk interfered with him on the play as he went by. Referee Jack Melbacher held that Stasiuk was knocked into Hall by a Detroit player, nullifying the foul claim, and slapped a 10-minute misconduct on the goaltender.

ASK HAROLD, HE KNOWS

Scores, Not Years Best Golf Guide

Scorecards, not birth certificates, are the important reference guides in the Times Vancouver Island Match Play Open Golf Tournament, which opens this year at Royal Colwood March 25.

Age means nothing in the tournament except what the individual player wants to make it. And the fellows like Harold Lineham and Bob Morrison keep proving each year that, just because there is snow on the roof, it does not mean that the fire is out inside. The people who maintain that golf is a young man's game can get a squelching argument from the performance that Lineham, at 53 years of age, put on during last year's tournament.

The short but thick-shouldered Colwood Golf Club member saved some of his greatest golf of the year for the tournament and the only man who beat him was Bill McColl, who eventually won the Island title and went on to pile up the biggest year of his golfing career.

Lineham started out quietly, barely qualifying with a 78, which was the maximum score for continuance in match play. But then Lineham started knocking people off.

First of all, he ousted 1952

TOTEMS OFF ON TOURNAMENT TRAIL

Ed Kowalyk and coach George Andrews. Kneeling are, left to right, Art Chiko, George Vickery and Tom English. Totems will compete with 15 other high school teams in the knockout competition.

B.C. TITLE MEET

Totems In Tough Tourney

Victoria High School Totems will have some talk, as well as stiff competition these next three days in the B.C. high school basketball tournament.

Lester Pearson High of New Westminster boasts two players, George Grozier and Don Kregg, at six-foot-six, top scorers of the 16 teams entered in the tourney.

Not too far below, however, is Totems' Waldo Skillings, who stretches to six feet four inches. Although defeated by Magee High of Vancouver last week in the lower mainland final, Pearson's lofty first string makes it a strong favorite to take the laurels.

This is brand-new Lester Pearson's first appearance in the tournament, while Victoria, along with Vancouver College, is making its ninth in 11 years.

Technically, defending champion Trapp Tech will not be back this year but the school, along with Duke of Connaught, has moved over to Lester Pearson.

Play started today in the tournament, divided into two sections of eight teams each. Losing teams will have a chance to compete in a consolation round.

Totems' first game is against fellow Island representative Cumberland. Other Island teams entered are Esquimalt and Alberni District High.

Podres' Hero Role Prompts Army Call—Ted

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP)—Ted Williams says Brooklyn pitcher Johnny Podres wouldn't have been caught in the draft if he had been a world series flop.

"Podres is paying the penalty for being a star," the Boston Red Sox slugger said Tuesday. "If Podres had lost those world series games, he would probably still be with the Dodgers."

Podres recently was reclassified I-A from 4-F after three years of being deferred from military service because of a bad back. Williams blamed the situation on "gutless draft boards, gutless politicians and gutless sports writers."

In sounding off, Williams brought into the open a tender subject to ball players.

"When Podres became a hero in the series," he said, "some politicians said, 'Why isn't a big strong kid like that in the army.'"

"The draft boards didn't have the courage to oppose the politicians and the sports writers are equally to blame because they didn't take up the case for Podres."

Ted himself was recalled as a Marine Corps pilot at 34 for Korean action after a Second World War hitch.

He described what he called the inequality of deferments which allow college students and major corporation employees to continue their work while players are robbed of some of their comparatively few productive years.

URGES CHANGE IN LAW

"The owners should go to the government and have the draft law changed," Williams said. "There's no reason why—with no war—ball players shouldn't serve their time in the off season."

Edward L. Kelly, chairman of the Tinconderoga, N.Y., draft board which reclassified Podres, said he would have no immediate comment on Williams' remarks.

Roman Traditions To Be Revised

ROME (AP)—The traditions of ancient Rome will be revised for the 1960 summer Olympics, Olympic planners said Tuesday.

Tentative plans call for the weightlifting competition to be the Colosseum, where gladiators fought for their lives during the sports festivals 2,000 years ago.

If the weather is clear, gymnastic competition for men and women is scheduled for the historic Basilica di Masenzio in the old Roman forum.

LORNE MOST VALUABLE SAY NHL SKIPPERS

MONTREAL (UP)—Chunky, sad-faced Lorne (Gump) Worsley, the New York Rangers' hard-working goaltender, was voted the most valuable player and a first team all-star berth today by the captains of the six National Hockey League clubs.

Two Rangers, two Montreal Canadians and two Detroit Red Wings were the choice of the captains in the 17th annual poll. In addition to Worsley, defenseman Bill Gadsby of the Rangers was chosen. Other first team nominees were Montreal's stylish centre, Jean Beliveau, and defenseman Doug Harvey, and Detroit's right-winger, Gordie Howe, and left-winger, Ted Lindsay.

POLICE CALLED TO QUELL RIOT

Flyer Win Streak Ended by Smokies

SPOKANE (CP)—Trail Smoke Eaters won their first game of the Western International Hockey League finals here Tuesday night by breaking a second overtime period deadlock and beating Spokane Flyers, 8-7.

It was Spokane's first loss on home ice after 16 successive victories. The best-of-seven finals now stand at 3-1 for the Flyers.

Gerry Penner flipped home a rebound after a wild goal-mouth scramble to give Trail the sudden-death winner at 4:55 of the second overtime period.

The final minute of the third period was a particularly wild session. Bobby Kromm tangled with Flyers' Jack Miller 31 seconds before the end of regulation time and it took players of both clubs, police officers and referees Tommy Dunn and George Cullen to restore order. Five seconds later Gino Rozzini and Joe Conn tangled in a corner and emerged with roughing penalties.

Kromm was handed a two-minute minor for slashing, a five-minute major for fighting and a match misconduct. Miller was assessed a five-minute major for drawing blood and a match misconduct.

Vics Whip Mt. Doug

Ricky Blake's 14-point performance Tuesday was too good to go as Victoria High downed Mt. Douglas, 29-18, in an inter-high school boys junior basketball league game.

Blake led Mt. Douglas in scoring, while Billy Wilson and Terry Varcoe shared honors for the winners with eight points each.

Phil Turns Psychologist To Get Best Out of Pete

NEW YORK (CP)—Coach Phil Watson, who has used just about every trick to keep New York Rangers rolling in high gear this season, disclosed Tuesday how he combined a newspaper story and some psychology to steam up left-winger Pete Conacher for Sunday night's game here against Toronto Maple Leafs.

The story in a Toronto newspaper quoted Leaf general manager Hap Day as drawing a comparison between Charley Conacher, Pete's father, and Gerry James, a Toronto rookie forward.

James, who gave up pro football with Winnipeg Blue Bombers to join the hockey Leafs this season, scored his second goal of the season when Montreal beat Toronto 4-3 last Thursday.

Day remarked afterwards that James played so well that "he looked just like Charley Conacher."

Watson took some liberties with the quote, twisting it just enough to make it seem Day had said James would be another Charley Conacher.

Before Sunday night's game, he called Pete Conacher in and said:

"You should be proud of your father's name and you ought to be mad enough about the Conacher-James comparison to knock James out of the rink."

Watson said he told Pete "there was only one Charley Conacher and if anybody was going to be the new Charley Conacher it should be his son, nobody else."

The Ranger coach said Pete "got so mad he wanted to punch me in the nose."

Pete was the outstanding player against the Leafs Sunday night as the Rangers won 4-2 after losing 5-2 in Toronto the previous night. He scored two goals to boost his season total to 11.

It was obvious that Hap Day's comment referred only to the specific game since James has a long way to go to match the great Charley, who scored 20 goals in his first season with the Leafs, 1929-30, and went on to finish with a lifetime total of 225. Many credited him with the hardest shot in the game.

Let's Face Facts: Canucks Were Hot

Cougars Soundly Thumped

Vancouver 7, Victoria 0

By BILL WALKER

VANCOUVER — Even their best friends could be excused for not recognizing the Cougars here Tuesday night.

They were soundly and deservedly thumped by Vancouver Canucks in what was billed as a battle for first place but turned out to be a rout for the western division leaders in the Western Hockey League.

The Canucks never looked better. Their 7-0 victory gave them a death-lock on the western division title.

The Cougars have looked worse, but that was a long time ago. They simply ran out of gas, gumption and go against the fierce-checking, hard-skating and clever-passing Canucks.

Cougar captain Colin Kilburn summed it up when, in the distinct scarcity of post-game comments, he remarked:

"They gassed us, good."

Victory put Canucks three points ahead of Cougars with each club having two games to play. Cougars meet Westminster in Victoria Friday night and close out the season at Seattle Saturday. Canucks host Seattle Friday and play at Westminster Saturday.

For Cougars to salvage first place they must win both games and Canucks lose both theirs. One tie would give the title to Canucks.

CLOSE FOR A TIME

The deluge came with startling suddenness in the second period after the clubs had battled through a tight scoreless first period. Rookie Larry Leach had the best chance of the first frame when he was left unmarked in front of goalie Ray Mikulan, but Mikulan proved Leach's master on the play.

It was still close to the vest when Bill Dobson drew a holding penalty at 3:52 of the second. Then Canucks' starry centre, Phil Maloney, took over. He rifled a partly-screened shot past Marcel Pelletier and the disintegration was under way.

Within seven minutes, Fred Brown had got his first of three and Tom McCarthy was sent in alone on a pass from Maloney.

Brown with two more, Gerry Ehman, the game's standout performer, and Bob Kabel completed the destruction in the third.

Maloney got four points to boast his scoring total to 91 points, seven points ahead of Blinky Boyce and Bobby Love of the Royals and Gerry Melnyk of Edmonton Flyers.

Mikulan's shutout, an easy task, was his sixth of the year and his fourth over Cougars.

Cougars and Canucks broke even on season's play, each winning seven and tying two. The Canucks outscored Cougars, 43-31, on the year, the 12-goal difference being responsible for most of the 14-goal edge Mikulan holds over Pelletier in their private battle for goaltending honors.

Doug Anderson and coach Edie Olson sat out the game and likely won't play again until the playoffs begin next week, their injuries still troubling them.

Harper Wins

Glen Harper and his Duncan rink defeated both Tony Folk, of Duncan, and George Lunn, of Nanaimo, in a round-robin playoff, to retain the Vancouver Island curling championship.

Harper defeated Folk 7-6 and Lunn 10-6.

Curling for Harper was Harvey Hodge, third; Vern Kaspick, second, and Ed Mould, lead.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The army induction of Johnny Podres, Brooklyn's pitching star in the 1955 world series, has been delayed at least a month.

GOLFERS, BE WARNED! DON'T YOU GOOF, TOO

City golfers should take heed from what happened Tuesday.

In announcing details of the Times Vancouver Island Open match play golf championships, qualifying round was given as 36 holes at Royal Colwood, March 25.

This is erroneous. (Or, we goofed.)

Qualifying round is 18 holes only.

Lesson to be learned from this unparadise sin is that mistakes on the course could cost entrants a berth in the Open and handicap match play competition. Low 32 gross and low 32 net will qualify.

COWBOYS TAKE WHIPPING

Regals Keep Stamps Honest

Brandon 8, Calgary 3

BRANDON (CP)—Brandon Regals exploded for four goals in the final period here Tuesday night to wallop Calgary Stampede, 8-3, and stifle the Cowboys' hopes of taking over sole possession of first place from the idle Winnipeg Warriors.

Stamps now have two games left in the regular schedule; Warriors three.

Pat Lundy paced the Brandon attack with three goals while Ray Manson fired a pair. Elliott Chorley, Dale Sweeney and Jim Hay added singletons. It was the most prolific performance of the season by the Regals. Bill Shvetz was the big gun for Calgary with two goals and an assist on the third scored by Gerry Couture.

Sweeney opened the scoring for the Regals early in the first period on a pass from Doug Bentley and the Regals were never headed although Stamps tied the count twice. Couture evened matters from Shvetz 59 seconds before the period ended. Lundy and Manson shot Brandon into a 3-1 lead midway through the second. Stamps bounced back as Shvetz scored twice to tie the count again but Lundy put Brandon in front to stay at the 19:20.

A sensational display by Lucien Dechene in the Brandon nets thwarted Calgary's third period comeback attempt and the Regals, clicking at every chance, rained in four in a row to turn the game into a rout.

MARLENE ENTERED

Pinehurst, N.C. (BUP)—A star-studded field including Canadian amateur champion Marlene Stewart teed off today as qualifying play began for the 54th annual north and south women's amateur golf tournament, a preview of things to come in this summer's national women's amateur.

Quarantine Site Home for Aged?

Inter-Municipal Committee Studies Conversion of William Head Building

Greater Victoria intermunicipal committee will be asked to investigate whether William Head quarantine station can be developed as a home for old-age pensioners.

The suggestion was made at a meeting of the Victoria-Esquimalt Union Board of Health Tuesday.

Dr. Elizabeth Mahaffy, medical health officer, told the board the William Head station soon will be abandoned with the quarantine service moving to Ogden Point, and customs and immigration officials moving into the rebuilt former post office.

She said the party planned to take over William Head for an extended gunnery training area. The doctor said if the property could be obtained for the use of pensioners as a boarding home it would be suitable to house 600.

CLUB PROJECT?

School board representative to the board, Richard Reeve, said: "It sounds like a project for a civic-minded service club."

Board chairman, Esquimalt councillor G. K. Sammon, suggested action by councils or a special committee. City representatives Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson and Ald. Austin Curtis both said the distance of the station from town would detract from its suitability.

They felt the elderly people would not want to be so far from town and it would cut down the number of visitors they would have.

Besides referring the matter to inter-municipal committee, the board empowered Ald. Mrs. Wilson to pursue the question at Victoria council level.

It was also referred to a meet-

Wardens Probe Clue to Firebug At Vancouver

VANCOUVER (BUP) — Vancouver fire wardens are today following a new lead in their investigations into what is believed to have been a deliberate attempt to set fire to a Haro Street roominghouse over the weekend.

Oil-soaked rags and papers were placed against a small window at the rear of the basement. The owner, Felix Klosin, who extinguished the flames with a bucket of water, said the fire had been deliberately set.

A number of set fires were reported from the same area last year.

Post Office Studies Automatic Equipment

Victoria post office in 1955 delivered between 80,000 and 100,000 items of mail daily to the 40,000 Victoria homes, postmaster R. F. Reid told the Kiwanis Club Tuesday.

He said there had been an addition of seven new mail routes the past two years, each of which served between 400 and 500 homes.

"We will require more routes this year as well," he said.

Each mail item is handled by about seven people before delivery, and Canada's postal service is studying possible use of helicopters, conveyor belts and automatic equipment to see if the service can be speeded.

The post office here has plans to start a curbside mailing service on Government Street to enable people to drive up in cars and deposit letters without getting out.

Non-Residents Face Health Centre Fee

A service fee may be charged in the two municipalities which pay future for all persons receiving for the service, call at the health treatment at Victoria Health Centre for inoculations.

The question was referred to the city solicitor, city manager and the medical health officer for re-

Esquimalt health board meeting Tuesday that 19 per cent of those families attending the well-baby clinic came from Saanich, Oak Bay and other outside points.

It was also pointed out that many persons who do not live in

BOAT BURNED FOR SALVAGE

SIDNEY—A blazing vessel on Sidney Spit that caused considerable alarm among residents Monday night, was identified as a former navy Fairmile being burned for salvage of hardware used in its construction.

RCMP said the burning was carried on by William Smith. James Island residents also reported the fire, visible for many miles.

New Board of Health Cost Plan Would Cut City's Share $16,000

A new cost-sharing plan increasing Esquimalt and school board contributions to the Union Board of Health was endorsed by the board Tuesday.

If accepted by the city, Esquimalt and the school trustees of district 61, costs will increase to $1,350, to the school board by about $14,750 and the city's share will be reduced by roughly $16,000.

The plan was submitted by city manager C. C. Wyatt. His figures were based on the contention that if the city were providing services for its own needs only it would cost much less than was paid in 1955.

In the past the city has provided services of city hall personnel to the board and the city owns the premises used by the health centre.

The proposed schedule of cost-sharing would see 62.4 per cent of annual costs met by the city, 29 per cent by Esquimalt and

COMMUNISTS DROP 9,292 IN YUGOSLAVIA

BELGRADE (AP) — Vice-President Alexander Rankovic told the central committee of the Communist party Tuesday that party membership in Yugoslavia now numbers 624,806. That represents a decrease of 9,292 members in the last year. Yugoslavia's total population is about 17,000,000.

School board representative Richard Reeve objected to the health board being controlled by city council. Consideration will be given to changing the original agreement so that Esquimalt

Patrol Leader Central Figure In Scouting

Leaders Trade Training Ideas

By FREEMAN KING

Older boys can be kept in the Scout movement by allowing the leadership of the patrol to remain in the hands of the boys themselves. This is the conclusion reached at a round table discussion at the recent conference of the B.C. Scout Association held in Vancouver. The group felt that patrols should run their own show, the Scouts just giving a guiding hand.

Alan McInnes of Duncan led discussion on the Queen's Scout badge, asking the question "Are Queen's Scout badges awarded too quickly?" John Thurman, international director of training, said that as a Queen's Scout badge represented service to the boy's country, he should be of an age when he fully realized his responsibilities and was qualified and prepared to carry them out.

RIGHT PEOPLE

Leadership training and its application was brought forward by Les Cashman, district commissioner for the interior. It was thought necessary that the right type of people should be contacted and shown the proper approach, making sure that they realized that it was a "game" in which boys were led to become reliable citizens of tomorrow.

At the luncheon John Thurman told of his experiences in other lands as to the method of scouting. He said we must realize that the minute we step out of our own country we are foreigners, and that we should see the other man's side of the picture.

LAW FUNDAMENTAL

Scouting methods and training are applicable to the country that a boy is living in. The fundamental Law and Promise are the main objectives.

Thurman said that B.P. had written and re-written "Scouting for Boys" and if he found anything wanting he threw it out, keeping only the things that were applicable to the boy and to where he is living. After all, we are working for the boy who some day will be the man of tomorrow.

Thurman said that Canadian Scouting was good, but warned us not to become complacent—to be ever looking forward.

Gordon Head Protests Machine Shop

A large number of Gordon Head residents petitioned Saanich council Monday to reject an application to permit the completion of a machine and engineering workshop on Tyndall Avenue.

G. A. Vantreigh, bulb farmer, owner of the workshop under construction, made the application to rezone the land to commercial.

Residents are supported by the Town Planning Commission which is opposed to the application on the grounds that the land is zoned for residential and farming.

A. G. Higgs, San Pedro resident, told the councillors that last year's council granted a temporary building licence to Mr. Vantreigh "without even consulting ratepayers in the area."

CONDITIONAL

Roy Wootton, licence inspector, said the temporary licence was granted to Mr. Vantreigh subject "only to the land being rezoned to commercial. The building was then intended for farm machinery, he said.

"Mr. Vantreigh knows that," said Mr. Wootton. "I made him read out the terms of the temporary licence."

Mr. Vantreigh said he saw no reason why residents objected to the rezoning application as Gordon Head was in need of a commercial zone.

Council decided to submit the entire matter to the municipal solicitor for advice.

$300,000 Paid On Oil Rights

B.C. government, at a sale Monday, picked up $300,000 in bonus payments from firms seeking oil and natural gas exploration rights in northern B.C.

Deputy Mines Minister Dr. J. F. Walker opened tenders for eight parcels of land near the HBC trading post at Nelson Forks.

Imperial Oil Ltd. offered $149,968 as a bonus payment for six parcels. Texaco Exploration bid $126,100 for the other two parcels.

It was the second sale in two weeks, the previous sale resulting in bonus payments totaling $1,200,000 being paid into the provincial treasury.

Steve Findlay Heads Ladysmith C of C

LADYSMITH—Steve Findlay was elected by acclamation Monday as president of the Ladysmith Chamber of Commerce.

Other members of the new executive are: second vice-president, H. A. M. Dodgson; secretary, J. R. Clarkson; treasurer, Reg. Pringle. The position of first vice-president will be filled either by election at the installation meeting, or by appointment.

The installation banquet will be open to members, their wives and guests.

The question of public access to private logging roads on weekends and public holidays was discussed at the regular Monday meeting and it was decided to write R. M. Strachan, M.L.A. pressing for such access.

Introducing the subject, Tom McCormick said interest in such access was not limited to hunters and fishermen. Tourists, skiers, and others would like to see some of the country in areas accessible only by such roads, he said.

Brentwood Plant to Aid Power Supply

Brentwood steam generating plant will make up for the departure of a barge-mounted diesel generator from Nanaimo to Squamish, B.C. Power Commission officials said today.

The barge was one of several auxiliary sources of power being used on the island to conserve depleted water supplies at Lower Campbell Lake in the John Hart hydro development.

It has been sent to the B.C. Electric, which supplies power to Squamish and Britannia Beach on Howe Sound. Road construction work in the area has caused a number of breaks in power supplied by the company, over a transmission line from West Vancouver.

The Brentwood plant, owned and operated by the B.C. Electric, will increase its supply to at least the capacity of the barge unit, commission officials said. The barge unit develops 2,000 kilowatts, they said.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Three Liberal members of the Newfoundland legislature resigned today.

They said they proposed to devote their time to private business.

Gyros to Build Bathhouse At Cadboro Bay This Spring

Saanich council Monday approved a Victoria Gyro Club project to build an $18,000 bathhouse at Cadboro Bay Park.

Gyro official George Barr said construction of the building will start this spring.

The building will have a concrete foundation and cedar siding. It will be 24 feet wide and 72 feet long and will include women's and men's dressing rooms, toilet facilities and showers.

The bathhouse is only one of many projects the Gyro Club plans to carry out at the park within the next five years.

At least $40,000 will be spent for landscaping and recreational facilities on the 4.5-acre park.

The land, formerly a swamp, was bought by the Gyro Club two years ago and dedicated to the municipality. The club undertook to develop the entire area as a public service.

In the past year, the club with the assistance of municipal workers, has been filling the swamp with gravel. There is still a section of the land to be reclaimed before the project is completed.

B.C. OWNED AND OPERATED

AROUND and ABOUT With JO HEALY

CAYCUSE—Because this is an industrial centre and therefore outstanding safety-and-first-aid conscious, and because I've had fairly extensive first-aid training, through the years, in St. John Ambulance Association courses, I was interested to read, and would like to pass along, an account in a magazine of what was declared as a "new way of giving manual artificial respiration to babies in the helpless stage (under two years)." Quoted as described in the Journal of American Medical Association, it goes as follows:

"A baby or a toddler who has been smothered by a pillow, poisoned by a gas leak, or has fallen into water, has a better chance of being saved if adults know how to use quickly this simple technique."

The small child is laid face down on the operator's right forearm with legs straddling his elbow joint. Operator's right middle (not index) finger is held in the child's mouth to keep the tongue down and the mouth open so there is a free airway to the lungs. The rest of the right hand supports the child's head, and the left hand on top of the child's neck and shoulders helps hold it. The operator's arm with the child on it is moved up and down, see-saw fashion, at a 45-degree angle each way. This makes the child's abdominal muscles push and pull on the diaphragm, forcing air in and out of the lungs. The operator keeps the rhythm by repeating "Out goes the bad air; in goes the good air" for a complete cycle of 12 times a minute, starting with the downward tilt as he says "out" and tilting upward as he says "in."

This new method saves children from the danger of broken ribs and punctured lung tissues which often follow the use of the standard method.

Wondering how tired the operator's arm would become, I tried the method, and found that it is possible to keep up the rhythm for a considerable length of time; and if the muscles do become tired, I found by leaning the elbow across the corner of a table that the exercise could be continued indefinitely.

An advantage to the instruction of this method is that students could use large dolls to practice the correct rhythm.

I'd be interested to hear from any of the medical profession and first-aid officials as to their opinion of the efficiency of this means of infant respiration.

June Finish Seen for Phone Expansion

PORT ALBERNI—The $60,000 improvement and expansion program that B.C. Telephone Co. is now working on here is progressing as scheduled, according to L. A. Huxtable, Vancouver district commercial manager.

Part of a larger, $300,000 program for the entire up-island district, it is designed to keep pace with the rapid growth of population and industry in recent years.

Most of the heavy work—the placing of cable, wire and poles—has been completed by a crew under the supervision of William McDougall. Splicing of thousands of pairs of tiny wires remains to be done under the supervision of Bob Bingham.

If spliced end to end to form one continuous strand, these wires would form a strand 2,798 miles long. Such a length of wire could be stretched between Port Alberni and Victoria more than 22 times.

When completed in mid-year, the project will provide facilities for telephone service in new subdivisions and make possible improved telephone service for many subscribers in the exchange area.

An additional project costing more than $30,000 will follow the completion of the present one. By year's end, B.C. Telephone Co. will have spent almost $100,000 to improve and expand telephone facilities in this centre.

Central Sannich Plans Play Fields

Eight Acres of Farm Land Available For $4,000, Councillor Peard Says

SAANICHTON—Playing fields for Central Saanich were advocated by Coun. Harry A. Peard before council here Tuesday night.

First suggestion was that two lots reserved for park purposes in the Gore Avenue district be developed.

The councillor also informed council that eight acres of farm land on Keating Crossroad could be obtained for $500 an acre.

The need for playing fields in the municipality is apparent and now is the time to formulate plans, Coun. Peard said.

Reeve H. Rupert Brown was opposed to spoiling Gore Park, but expressed the view that plenty of lots were available for utilization as playing areas.

Generally, council appeared to favor Coun. Peard's proposals. Commercial development at the intersection of Mount Newton Crossroad and Patricia Bay highway was hinted by Coun. Ray M. Lamont.

He said he had been approached by a prospective buyer of property at that site who was considering the erection of a garage and service station.

The interested person wanted to be assured that he would have full access to the front sweep of the main highway.

It was indicated by council the area would have to be rezoned for the purpose.

Ribbon development on Patricia Bay Highway appears to be causing Central Saanich council some concern.

APPLICATION TABLED
Application of R. Landy to install two gasoline pumps at the location of his coffee shop on the airport highway was tabled after some discussion.

ZONING EXTENSION
Application of Harry Mow for a permit covering reconstruction of his vegetable stand on Patricia Bay Highway at the intersection of Keating Crossroad, supported by the building inspector, was authorized subject to police commission and department of highways approval.

It was disclosed earlier a commercial zone extension was being considered at the north-east corner of West Saanich Road and Keating Cross Road, where an oil company plans a filling station and stores.

PUBLIC MEETING
The revised zoning by-law was discussed by council, and a date will be set in the immediate future for the holding of a public meeting at the Keating hall for the benefit of rate payers.

Capt. Eric Barnes was granted permission to convert an existing building in The Anchorage grounds into a four-suite apartment for the use of fishing interests at an estimated cost of $4,000. No action was taken on the application of Jack Miller for wharf extensions at Brentwood in view of the pending decision on waterfront leases.

Plastic Armchair Trays Are Handy at Snacktime

By PENNY SAVER

When you're sitting watching TV and trying to balance a plate, cup or glass on the arm of a chair, quite often it's a real job to keep from spilling something. Of course, the ideal solution is a tray to clip to the arm of the chair. And you can have just that for $2.49. One of these new, plastic trays has two spring-action grips that hug the sides of the arm and hold the clear plastic tray steady. You'll find it comes in handy when you're entertaining, too, for you'll have another surface that will hold a glass or plate, and there'll be no thought of stains or rings. They're easy to wash, and easy to store.

Looking for something especially for him for St. Patrick's Day? Come see the touch of Ireland I found in the Kelly green ties. They are patterned with either a large shamrock which enfolds an Irish countryside scene, or a flurry of shamrocks team with a black Irishman's hat and a knobby shillelagh. Each costs $1.50.

While I was in one of Victoria's craft shops, I found some studio pottery of original design. There's a large pottery covered punch bowl in bright blue with a pen-and-ink bird design highlighted with touches of yellow.

With the bowl come six matching cups, which, like the bowl, are lighter blue inside. The cups repeat the delightful, modern pattern. This set is $3.50.

especially meant for hot drinks, for with the pottery handles on the bowl and cups, you can't burn your hands. The lady in the store suggested hot chocolate with marshmallows floating on top, or when you're entertaining, hot, spiced wine. This set would make a wonderful wedding gift for those newlyweds, or a welcomed present for any occasion. The seven pieces, all hand-done, cost $24.95.

Local clay is used for the sculpting of the miniature ducks I saw. They are perfectly detailed, and touched with colors to make them look very real. Each one is just a little different, because they're hand-made. For the friend who has a miniature menagerie collection, here's a thoughtful and tasteful gift. They cost $3.50.

Month-End Wedding Planned

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Smith, Vancouver, have announced the engagement of Mr. Smith's daughter, Miss Nona Rita Smith, of Calgary, Alta., to Mr. Richard A. Zala, RCAF, Calgary, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Zala, 933 Wilmer Street, Victoria. The wedding will take place in Victoria at Metropolitan United Church at 8 p.m. on March 31, with Rev. William Buckingham, Sidney, officiating. Miss Smith has asked her sister, Mrs. Bert Kerekes, of Calgary, to be matron of honor. Bridesmaids will be Miss Gail Quarrie, Vancouver; Miss Lynne Smith, cousin of the bride-elect, New Westminster, and Miss Pamela Garvie, Portland, Ore., another cousin of the bride-elect, the flower girl. Best man will be Mr. Bert Kerekes, and ushers will be Mr. Donald A. Smith and Mr. George Lynn.

Joan Mollgard Honored

Miss Joan Mollgard, bride-elect of this month, was honored recently at a surprise miscellaneous shower at the home of her aunt, Mrs. J. Allman. The honor guest and her mother, Mrs. K. Mollgard, received corsages of pink carnations. Gifts were presented in a pink and green container. Guests were Mrs. K. Schmelz, Mrs. M. Hall, Mrs. H. Kjer, Mrs. F. Howland, Mrs. E. Gray, Mrs. C. Drader, Mrs. O. Pedersen, and Misses Jean Hall, Joan Long and Lois Earl.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Cameron, 3441 Mayfair Drive, who are holidaying in California, were guests at Disneyland, at the Disneyland Hotel recently. Mr. and Mrs. Cameron will return to Victoria in April.

Sprina Twosome-Proteinwise Includes Good Food Balance

Folks agree that peaches and cream, ham and eggs, bread and butter, are "made for each other." A twosome, naturally made to go together in the realm of good nutrition, combines plant and animal proteins. Food scientists have found that proteins are complex substances made up of many amino acids, at least eight of which are essential to man since they cannot be manufactured by the body. If a protein does not contain proper amounts of the essential amino acids it is said to be "incomplete." The cereal grains—plant foods—are called "incomplete" proteins because each lacks one or more of the essential amino acids. Meat, fish, poultry, eggs and milk products—animal foods—are known as "complete" proteins. Beans, peas or nuts are almost as "complete" sources of protein as the animal foods.

Pairing off the "incomplete" proteins with the "complete" proteins in daily menu planning is a simple but sensible chore. One type of protein supplements the other when cereal proteins are combined with animal proteins. The results—like when milk is added to enriched white bread—is a protein food of excellent quality. Protein twosomes can also be accomplished by serving (and eating) enriched white or whole wheat bread with meals featuring one dish of meat, eggs or other animal foods.

Other examples of wise protein "pairing off" include favorite sandwiches made with cheese, meats, fish or peanut butter. The children's perennial favorite—bread and butter and a glass of milk—is a perfect "made for each other" protein combination.

Tea for Visitor

Mrs. Arthur Morehouse of Cowichan Station was a visitor in Victoria last week. While here she enjoyed an informal tea with friends at the Nutshell tea room. Present were Mrs. Robert Davidson, Mrs. J. Spears, Duncan, and Mrs. C. Holland.

Joan Fielden was in Victoria Tuesday on a brief visit to present the story of soups in a colorful and interesting manner.

'Soups Can Be Interesting' Home Economics Expert Says

On her first trip to the Pacific Coast in her official capacity as director of home economics for the Canadian company of Campbell's Soups, Miss Joan Fielden has been contacting home economics teachers, heads of institutions and women's editors.

Her mission is to present, through these mediums, the story of soups and the different ways in which soups can be used in nutritious and flavorful meals.

"It's amazing how little the average housewife knows about soups," Miss Fielden says, "and how to prepare them in a variety of ways. That's part of my work, of course, to educate women in the ways of using soups."

In the Toronto plant of Campbell's Soups, Miss Fielden has a model kitchen in which soup recipes are tested, tried in this kitchen and proven. With her staff, this dynamic young woman conceals new recipes and new combinations of soups. She sends members of her staff out to demonstrate these recipes and to conduct classes. Two of the staff are French girls and they demonstrate and speak in the province of Quebec.

Once a month Miss Fielden flies to Camden, N.J., to the head office of Campbell's Soups, where she assists with the setting up of displays for photographs.

"These are mostly black and white," she says, and then an extra sparkle comes into her eyes as she adds, "but we do get some color work... for frontispieces and food spreads of magazines. Ummmm! Our soups do look good in color pictures. Just as good as they taste."

Miss Fielden also works with her firm's frozen foods and she has many "quick-meal" suggestions for using these foods.

She is a graduate of University of Toronto and has been with the Campbell's Soups company for a year and a half.

One of her many interesting assignments is arranging and running the firm's exhibit

GIVE FACTS ON CANADA-MADE GOODS

OWEN SOUND (CP) — Glamor associated with the word "imported" is steering Canadian women away from Canadian-made goods, T. A. Rice told the chamber of commerce Tuesday.

President of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, Mr. Rice suggested retailers, instead of appealing to women's sentimentality and emotion, give them facts and service to encourage buying of Canadian goods.

They are as good or better than imported products and their sale will increase Canadian prosperity and raise the standard of living, he said.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Life-Too Complicated?
Relax in the Country

Life seems set at a pace which is tiring. It seems that our days are complicated and our rest is often interrupted. Noise is one great source of fatigue in modern life. There are telephones, radios, television, lawn mowers, buses, trucks, fans, trains and airplanes.

That is why it is so blessedly restful to go into the country. In the quiet our nerve ends seem to go limp and we experience a healing sort of relaxation.

The demands of the modern family are greater than they were in the past. Social life has become more complex. Children indulge in more activity. Many mothers spend a large portion of each day acting as chauffeurs for their children and husbands.

Next week spring is officially here. Let's respond by taking every opportunity to get out in the country as often as possible. Even if you only go for a few hours you will come back refreshed. The air and the sun and the breeze and the quiet can strip you of tensions.

We really should make every effort to make life as uncomplicated and simple as possible. Constant hurry and pressure are potent factors in the fatigue which penalize modern man and woman.

If we would plan our day or week and drop those nonessential responsibilities, which actually mean little to us, we will have gone a long way toward better health. Get out as often as possible by a quiet stream or lake or in the density of a forest and relax. The days are getting longer and there are some lovely weekends in store.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Cranberry juice served as an appetizer with a dash of lemon juice is nutritious, perks up appetites and aids digestion.

If you need to improvise a ring mold, place a greased tin can in the centre of a well-greased casserole.

When making bread or rolls, rinse bowl in hot water before mixing dough to prevent cooling yeast mixture.

Some clothespins (square-shanked type), plus an empty cereal box, will keep baby happy for at least 20 minutes at a stretch. Put 'em in. Takes 'em out. Over and over. Don't give him a milk bottle to play with. Babies have dropped them and been injured seriously on the shattered glass.

May Not Solve Anything

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, Ph.D.

Divorce often brings with it more problems than it solves. (Q) "For two years, I have been working side by side with this man. We are both married with families. Neither of us is happily married. It seems that both our mates think only of money. When I go to a doctor, for example, my husband argues that I should have spent the money for something for the house or put it in the bank. The children resent him because he is always picking on them and me. The only time my children and I are happy is when we are at home alone. This man gives his wife every cent he earns but she is still never satisfied and calls him a poor provider. If he takes a drink, she and his children call him a 'bum'. We are so much in love that we are planning on divorces so we can be married. Please give me your advice about this." W. B.

(A) My advice to you is to go easy about divorce and remarriage. From what you say, there seems to be so many obstacles in your path, you are likely to jump from the frying pan into the fire, as the old saying goes.

In the first place, have you any assurance that either your husband or this man's wife would consent to a divorce? Your husband may feel he wants you to take care of his children and help contribute to their support, even if he does not love you.

The wife of the man you love may very readily refuse to give up her source of support. She would know only too well that if he married someone else she could not count on his pay cheque as she now does and that what he earned would have to be spread very thin to support two families.

Why not try to improve conditions in your own home so it will be a happier place for the whole family? With your love for this other man, your husband unquestionably knows or senses that you do not love him. As a result, he treats you and the children badly.

If you tried to be a better wife and to make your home a happier place, I am sure you would find conditions would improve. Running away from the marriage you now have into another might not solve all your problems as you think it will.

By FREEMAN KING
Scouters George Bennett and Jim Redwood of the Third Victoria and Deep Cove troops held a special training camp for their patrol leaders, building a monkey bridge cooking with a camp stove and making cakes. These two troops are planning a camping trip to Salt Spring Island during the Easter holidays.

NANAIMO DISTRICT: Fred au Coin and Wayne Stilling of "A" troop, 3rd Nanaimo, and Ted Dorsey of "B" troop were presented with their Queen's Scout badges by Bruce Armstrong, chairman of the group committee, at a special ceremony. This is the highest award that a scout can obtain. Roy Richmond received his record card from former district commander J. Colwell on taking over the work of a cub leader.

CHINESE TROOP: Owing to the absence of the scoutmaster, the troop meeting was run by patrol leaders who carried out first aid instruction and signalling practice.

THIRD VICTORIA PACK: The Cub Scouts from James Island Tuesday were guests for an evening of games and jungle plays. Scouts Wally Bond and Ray Rivers were in charge of the party. Members of the group committee served refreshments after the show.

The group Friday night will hold a parents' night. All Cub Scouts, Rovers and their parents and friends are invited to come and see the official jam borie film.

CHINESE PACK: Akela Winnie Bennett invested Randy Lowe and Kenny Chow as Wolf Cubs at the meeting on Monday evening. Allan Lowe and Ping Marr received their first year stars. Jeffery Yue his second year star. District Cubmaster Harry Ward paid the pack a visit.

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books? Then ask Andy! Andy, who is a prize, will answer two questions daily submitted by child readers of Canada and the U.S. Children who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive as prize, for the main question, either a 16-volume set of "The Children's Hour" or a 20-volume set of "The American People's Encyclopedia." Prizes for the secondary question will be an "American People's Encyclopedia Year Book" or a year's subscription to "Treasure Trail" plus "Andy's Everyday Encyclopedia."

Address your questions to "Ask Andy" Victoria Daily Times, Victoria. Andy sends a complete, 16-volume set of "The Children's Hour" to Jere Coffren, aged 10, of Lancaster, Penn., for his question:

Who Was Hans Christian Andersen?
We all know the story about the misplaced swan's egg. It appeared in a nest of duck eggs. When it hatched, it was a misfit among its foster brothers and sisters. It was a big, gawky bird and very unlike the pretty ducklings. Others in the farmyard made it miserable and it ran away. It was unhappy all the time it was growing up. Then one day it became a swan and settled down to live happily with other swans.

This touching story was written by Hans Christian Andersen. Some people think his life was like that of the Ugly Duckling. Certainly he had his troubles growing up. But so does everybody. As a child he was far too sensible to brood over what he could not have. And he never ran away in misery. Later he wrote many stories of young men who left home to seek their fortunes, just as he himself did when he grew older.

Off the coast of Denmark there is a bleak little island called Funen. This is where Hans was born in 1805. He was born and lived his early years in the fishing village of Odense. His father was a poor cobbler, his mother took in washing. The work bench, beds and table were crowded into a one-room house. And Hans remembered best of all the pretty cups and glasses, the bright pictures on the wall and the shelf of books.

He was a tall, gawky lad and very shy at school. He avoided going to school for this reason. He studied books at home and loved stories. His father helped him to read. His grandmother told him the old Norse tales of elves and fairies, goblins and ogres. Young Hans wanted to be an actor, a dancer and to write plays and novels. At 14 he bade goodbye to Odense and his family and left, with seven dollars, to seek his fortune in Copenhagen.

The next three years were rough for the ambitious young man. He found he had no talent for acting or dancing. But his writing was good enough to be brought to the attention of the king. Hans was given money for his education and to develop his writing talent. School life was hard on Hans for he was older than his school mates. But a good education is necessary for anybody who wants to write. So Hans made the grade and wrote a novel. He also wrote about his travels.

Then he took a little time to write four tales for a young friend named Ida Thiele. One of the tales was about a real princess who slept on a pea. Another was called The Tinderbox. One was about two rascals called Big Claus and Little Claus. When those tales were published everyone knew where his talent lay. His novel and travel books are forgotten. He rates as one of the world's greatest writers of fairy tales.

Hans lived for 70 years. He wrote 156 of his fascinating tales. He used his wonderful imagination and his memories to make the world of childhood come alive. He describes happy feelings through princesses and fairies, grim feelings through ogres and giants. And, in his stories, the tin soldier, the pots, the pans and the market basket can all talk.

Naturally, all the tales have a happy ending as all good fairy tales should. In 1975 we will celebrate the 100th anniversary of Hans' death. But the tales he wrote will be as fresh and wonderful as ever.

Andy sends an American Peoples Encyclopedia Yearbook to Winona Curtis, age 11, of Yarmouth, Maine, for her question:

How did Wyoming get its name?
There is a rich coal area in Pennsylvania called the Wyoming Valley. The Indians who once lived there named it with their lovely word meaning beautiful meadows. They knew little, if anything, about the coal. To them it was a place of lush grasses.

This tribe of Indians trekked clear across the U.S. to find a new home. They found another place of rich, green meadows. It seemed natural to give it the name they gave their old valley—Wyoming.

Of course there is far more to the present state of Wyoming than rich grassland—Wyoming has caves, canyons and cataracts. It has hot springs, lakes and petrifed forests. It is the of the scenic Yellowstone Park and is crossed by the proud Rockies. But it is still called Wyoming—the big meadows—because that's what the homesteaders named it.

Parents Hear Teachers Talk On School Courses

QUALICUM BEACH—"Open Night" at Qualicum Beach Junior-Senior High School took the form of a miniature school day, in which parents followed an actual school day's program of their children.

They went from room to room to hear teachers explain the subjects taught in five-minute "periods."

Intermissions of the same length gave an opportunity to discuss the children's progress with the teacher, and workbooks by the students were on display.

Home economics students, wearing dresses which they had made themselves as part of their sewing studies, presided in the auditorium at five tables, each class providing a graded display of cookery for the visitors. During the refreshment period the school's "7-teen" orchestra played selections.

Opening of Glenford will halt shifts at McKenzie School.

A 10-room addition opened at Willows School recently and four classes were moved there from the old Oak Bay Elementary School. Four classes still in the old premises will be dispersed

TITLE FIGHT, FINE PLAY, HITLER DOCUMENTARY HIGHLIGHT EXCITING NIGHT IN TELEVISION

By PHIL LEE Times TV, Movie Editor

BIG NIGHT: Tonight is a most unusual one television-wise, and we would advise viewers to be on the alert for the several outstanding features to be seen, for in some instances, a choice is required.

At 7 p.m. the choice is between a world championship fight and what promises to be a cracking-good hour-long play.

The fight, on Channel 5, is between welterweight champion of the world, Carmen Basilio, and challenger and ex-champ Johnny Saxton. Both boys, as TV fans know, are highly proficient in the many art. The 15-rounder will be seen from Chicago.

At the same time, on Channels 11 and 12, Ralph Bellamy stars in Steel Hour's 60-minute drama, "The Candidate." A U.S. senator has spent his life in politics, successfully so. Now he has one burning ambition left—to become president of the United States.

What promises to be another outstanding show makes its bow at 9. Called "The Twisted Cross," this is an hour-long documentary, compiled almost wholly from newsreels, on the rise and fall of Adolf Hitler. Channel 4 show is the second in the series that was initiated by the fine, exciting documentary on Russia, entitled "Nightmare in Red."

Those who do not on old movies of renown may wish to turn to Channel 5's MGM Parade at 9. It is here that Channel 5's new policy of showing old movies in their entirety in three 30-minute installments. Tonight's will be "Captain's Courageous," with Spencer Tracy and Freddie Bartholomew.

Part of Foot Eaten Off Baby As Pet Ocelot Turns Wild

BELTSVILLE, Md. (AP)—A baby who was attacked in his crib by a pet ocelot was reported in fair condition today, with part of his left foot, including the toes, chewed off by the big, cat-like animal.

The infant, Thomas Perry, seven weeks old, was taken to hospital Tuesday after he was found crying in a blood-soaked crib.

Thomas' condition was discovered by Winslow Prescott, 49, a handyman who was caring for him and an older sister at the Perry home.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Tardy Perry, returned from a New York visit Tuesday night after learning of the accident. They said the ocelot generally had been run of the house. It is about two feet long from nose to tail.

Police said they found an otter-like jaguarondi, seven Siamese cats and a dog in the home, as well as the ocelot. Officers, aided by an animal rescue squad truck driver, subdued the ocelot with a snare and took it to the nearby University of Maryland livestock laboratory.

Provincial ministers of agriculture accompanied by what ever officials they will require, have been invited by Mr. Gardiner to attend the conference. It will be closed to the press.

Representatives of farm organizations have not been invited.

Mr. Gardiner said that provincial ministers of agriculture when they met with him last December during the seventh federal-provincial agricultural conference, had urged that he call a conference in 1956 to discuss the legal relationships between the provinces and federal government regarding farm marketing boards.

TOP SHOWS—AND 'FLU' ARRIVE AT ART CENTRE

Art Gallery officials here opened their doors to two new and top-calibre shows this week, and influenza.

A 24-canvas show of Tom Thomson, one of Canada's most outstanding painters, arrived, as did water colors by Britain's top 50 painters.

But the staff was all down with the 'flu. Volunteers rallied to uncrate paintings.

The Thomson show will be on television, CBT, Vancouver, at 6.45 p.m. today.

40 SUB-STANDARD

Ice Cream Dispensers Unclean—Inspector

Bulk ice cream sales in Victoria do not measure up to health inspection standards, city sanitary inspector Elwood Gropp told a Union Board of Health meeting Tuesday.

He said his department will continue to make studies, and probably some recommendations for stiffer regulations covering dispensing will result.

He said 40 premises which retail bulk ice cream have been examined and bacterial content was below standards. Methods employed in dispensing of milk and soft ice cream were satisfactory.

Other health board business included a recommendation that the medical health officer check with the city engineer regarding the smoke nuisance in the city. The city now employs a smoke inspector, but board member Richard Reeve felt further steps should be taken.

Civil defence came up for discussion when health officer Dr. Elizabeth Mahaffy reported on her recent attendance at a course for medical health personnel at the federal CD training centre at Arnprior, Ont.

She said she was unable to reply when asked what views the local health board had on civil defence.

"Has civil defence been organized to the point where anyone can logically go into it?" asked board chairman Esquimaux Councillor G. K. Sammon. "We've been left right out of it."

"A lot of good money has been spent and what have we got?" asked Mr. Reeve.

Council Sammon pointed out the board would feel guilty if it ever washed its hands of civil defence and then an emergency arose.

No action was taken on the discussion.

"Cloudy skies tonight and Thursday, with temperatures ranging between 37 and 45 degrees, were predicted today by the weatherman.

Winds will be light, and rain is expected to hold off for at least 24 hours.

Dr. Robert Taylor of Toronto, executive director of the society, commented on charges that cigarettes cause lung cancer.

Dr. Taylor, a package-a-day man, said about 3,000 persons die each year in traffic accidents and 1,500 from lung cancer in Canada.

'ABSURD... COULD COST LIFE'

Expert Explodes Arsens Cancer Cure

VANCOUVER (CP)—There is "absolutely nothing to support" a cancer cure theory advanced recently by a member of the British Columbia legislature, the director of one of the United States' leading cancer research institutes said here Tuesday.

Dr. C. P. Rhoads, 57, director of the Sloan Kettering Institute for Cancer Research, said in an interview there was also "some danger" in the announcement made last month by Mrs. Lydia Arsens, Social Credit member of the legislature for Victoria.

Mrs. Arsens' theory—to feed a cancer patient more potassium than usual and eliminate all forms of sodium—met with harsh criticism when she gave it on the floor of the legislature.

Dr. Rhoads said his New York centre "makes every effort to explore this sort of thing... no matter how absurd."

"We have heard such claims of cures for many years, and of people who have been cured by these fantastic methods."

"Thousands of these claims have been investigated, but none have been substantiated."

Dr. Rhoads, here to address the annual convention of the British Columbia section of the Canadian Cancer Society, said also that "if a person chose one of these highly fantastic cure methods it could cost him his life."

Capacity Load On Split Ship Enquiry Told

SEATTLE (AP)—The Coast Guard called the captain and first mate of the Washington Mail today to hear their stories of the freighter's sinking in the North Pacific.

Coast guard investigators said Capt. Dudley Durrant and Chief Mate William Timmins would be among final witnesses at the inquiry. Durrant and Timmins were among 60 passengers and crew members saved when the freighter cracked in two March 3.

A cargo surveyor told the board Tuesday the vessel had only a half inch freeboard margin above the water safety line before she sailed from here on the fatal voyage.

Capt. William J. Brady of the National Cargo Bureau said the Washington Mail had a capacity load when he inspected her Feb. 29.

Brady said, however, he was "very much satisfied" with cargo storage and the general condition of the vessel. The freighter was down by the stern and had a slight port list but neither condition endangered the ship, he said.

3 City Men Cheat Death In Northern B.C. Wilds

JOSEPH BROADBENT
... suffered frostbite

Engineer Treks Six Miles Through Blizzard for Help

Three Victoria men had a narrow brush with death when their snowmobile broke down between Dawson Creek and Fort St. John.

The trio, provincial deputy railways minister Joseph Broadbent, Cyril Wightman, PGE official and Dick Batey of radio station CJVI were members of a PGE railway inspection party making a weekend trip.

They credited a six-mile trek for help by a PGE engineer with saving them from severe frostbite and possible death.

"We were seven hours behind time when the snowmobile finally broke down," said Batey via telephone from Prince George today. "The drifts were too much."

The party carried sleeping bags, snowshoes and lunch, and decided to walk out to civilization.

"By midnight we were exhausted," Batey said. Realizing it was impossible to go on, they spread their bags out on dead branches, lit a large fire and slept. Each breakfasted on a quarter can of beans and coffee and headed down the trail again Sunday morning.

Five miles further on, the party was again exhausted from fighting the heavy snow and stopped at a shack. At this point Bud Connell, resident construction engineer at remote Honeycomb Creek, decided to set out for help.

Battling through six miles of blizzard he struggled through to a sawmill settlement operated by Ernie Nichols.

"We stripped Connell of everything heavy so he could travel faster and he set off for Nichols' sawmill. He made it," Batey said, "and returned with one of Nichols' men and a sled and team of horses."

They waited out another blizzard at Nichols' home and were taken out over 18 miles of drifted roads to civilization Monday in two PGE jeeps, assisted by a bulldozer.

Other members of the party were B. C. Lewall, PGE chief engineer, and Lew King, PGE superintendent for Prince George.

Lewall is recovering from frostbite in Prince George Hospital and Broadbent has been released after treatment.

Australia Increases Import Tax

CANBERRA (Reuters) — The Australian government today raised taxes on imported goods ranging from jewelry to automobiles in an anti-inflation move designed to scale down foreign buying more in line with the country's foreign selling.

Prime Minister Robert Menzies also announced that bank overdraft rates will be increased from 5 to an average of 5½ per cent and the deposit interest rate increased 1 per cent. This was aimed at tightening credit to impose further buying restriction.

He also put another 5 per cent on the company tax.

Excise and customs duties on tobacco, alcoholic beverages and gasoline were increased sharply.

The tax on automobiles was increased from 16 2/3 per cent to 20 per cent and on commercial vehicles and motorcycles from 12½ to 16 2/3 per cent.

Confuse Fish Experts

PORTLAND Ore.—Steelhead found living in McNary Dam fish ladders have been tagged and transported over the dam for the second year.

The Oregon Fish Commission, which moved the steelhead, is puzzled about why these fish remain for long periods in the ladders, instead of going on up the river to more comfortable pools on the way to spawning grounds.

Biologists say fish ladders are not necessarily responsible. Some steelhead also loaf and feed for long periods in other parts of the river.

Tagging of 750 steelhead this year was part of a study program of the species. It took place when army engineers lowered water in the fish ladders to make routine repairs.

Last year some of the 1,000 steelhead tagged were caught three months later in tributaries below the dam, showing they had again gone down the dam.

It is hoped, says state fisheries director M. T. Hoy, that the steelhead study may help in planning future fishways on proposed dams.

Wade & Wells Decline to Bid On Stewart-Cassiar Road Project

Wade and Wells Ltd. did not enter a bid when tenders were opened today for a section of the controversial Stewart-Cassiar road.

The tenders were the first called on the road, which was worked on by Wade and Wells during the 1954 and 1955 construction seasons on a no-tender, cost-plus and machinery-rental contract.

The project was the object of an intensive investigation by a legislative committee during the recent legislative session.

Three bids were received on the Deas Lake section of the road. General Construction Ltd. bid $335,120, Piggott Construction Co. $375,330, and John A. McIsaac $225,950.

EXPERIENCED

The low bidder, McIsaac, worked on the road prior to the award of the job to Wade and Wells.

The tenders were for a contract similar to that held by Wade & Wells, who were identified during the committee hearings as "old friends" of former mines minister R. E. Sommers. The road is being paid for by the mines department, as a mining assistance road. Testimony also alleged that food was wasted, and construction was lax under Wade & Wells.

Contract calls for construction of from 25 to 30 miles of road along Deas Lake, described as "far tougher country" than that previously encountered. Bids were only for machinery rentals on 18 pieces of equipment required under specifications of the contract.

The government will pay 10 per cent over the cost of labor and food.

Basically the contract will be the same as that held by Wade & Wells, except that no tenders were called on machinery rentals in 1954 and 1955.

The legislative committee wound up its hearings at the end of the session without making a report.

An appropriation of $1,500,000 is available for the Stewart-Cassiar road this year. Some work will be started from the southern end, at the port of Stewart.

Eden Stakes Power On Cyprus Actions

Commons Warned Island Bastion Vital to Britain

(UP and Reuters Dispatches)

LONDON (UP)—Prime Minister Anthony Eden demanded the House of Commons vote confidence today in his policy toward Cyprus.

"Our immediate purpose must be to defeat terrorism. Our duty is equally to safeguard the strategic need of our country and our Allies," he told the Commons during debate on a Labor party motion of censure.

Eden declared Britain needs Cyprus as a military base to carry out her Atlantic pact duties, her pledge with the United States and France to keep peace between Israel and the Arab states, and to protect Britain's vital interests, including oil, in the Middle East.

Eden said that in negotiations with exiled Archbishop Makarios, leader of the union with Greece movement on Cyprus, "all we asked for, at every stage, was a declaration against the use of violence, and we did not get it."

"I submit, we had no choice but to fulfill our responsibilities or abdicate our authority. We chose the former."

"As to the future, the offer made in the white paper (for Cypriot self-government) stands. Our immediate purpose must be to defeat terrorism."

"Our duty is, equally, to safeguard the strategic need of our country and our allies."

"Neither NATO obligations nor the Baghdad pact nor any agreement in the mid-eastern area—none can be speedily and effectively carried out unless we have free and unfettered use of Cyprus."

Eden's speech was in answer to Aneurin Bevan's accusation, when opening the debate, that the government was unable to make up its mind what to do about Cyprus.

It was Bevan's debut in Commons as the Labor Party's official spokesman on colonial affairs.

Bevan said the heart of the matter was whether Britain was anxious to have Cyprus as its military base or whether it merely wanted to have a base in Cyprus.

He reasoned that if the island were united with Greece, North Atlantic Treaty Organization in the interests of Great Britain bases—both on the Greek mainland and on Cyprus—would not be denied to the western powers.

"For the life of us we cannot understand why it is that negotiations have failed," the Labor spokesman said.

Bevan was cheered loudly by Labor members as he said: "We are doing the name of Great Britain great damage in almost every part of the world."

"We stood alone in 1940, but it was a noble isolation. We are almost standing alone today, but it is an ignoble loneliness we are achieving."

He ended amid a roar of Labor cheers: "Unless the government can do better than it has done in the interests of Great Britain it would be better for it to resign."

U.S. Won't Take Sides—Ike

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower declared today the allied interests will be gravely jeopardized if war breaks out in the Middle East or if the Cyprus dispute continues.

The United States is ready to do anything reasonable and practicable to help Greece and Britain reach a solution of the Cyprus dispute. The United States is friendly to both countries despite their present argument over Cyprus. Co-operation of Britain and Greece is essential to the success of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

But the problem is very tough and complicated and a solution is up to the participants.

The President firmly emphasized that the United States is ready to do anything to help in the British-Greek dispute over the British-held island of Cyprus. But he made it clear this country will not take sides.

Earlier, the British foreign office was reported flabbergasted by the expression of "sympathetic concern" which U.S. Ambassador Cavendish Cannon gave to the Greek government and a state department spokesman's remark that the U.S. is urging Britain to resume its negotiations with the Cypriots.

London officials said both actions suggested the United States was siding with the Cypriots and Greece in the dispute. Apparently this feeling was only somewhat allayed by the state department's clarifying statement Tuesday night.

In Eden's message was a reply to King Hussein's explanation of his reasons for asking Lt. Gen. Sir John Glubb to resign as Arab Legion commander, his policy towards Britain and the present status of British officers in the Jordanian army.

Eden's message was a reply to King Hussein's explanation of his reasons for asking Lt. Gen. Sir John Glubb to resign as Arab Legion commander, his policy towards Britain and the present status of British officers in the Jordanian army.

Heavy Nixon Support Big Surprise in N.H.

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP)—Senator Estes Kefauver's clear-cut victory in Tuesday's New Hampshire primary has put new punch and power into his drive for the Democratic presidential nomination—but the election's real surprise was Vice-President Richard Nixon.

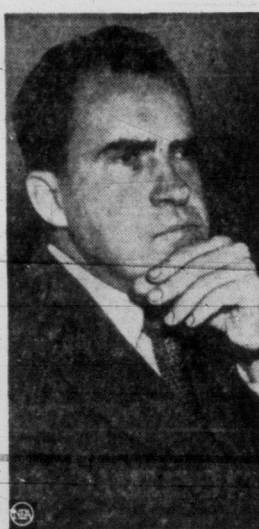

Nixon received a towering "write-in" vote of 18,367 from 260 of the state's 297 precincts in the vice-presidential preference poll.

In the presidential balloting New Hampshire:

1. Gave Kefauver all 12 Democratic delegates, and their eight convention votes. The Tennessee senator crushed a slate favoring Adlai E. Stevenson.

2. As expected, it elected 14 Republican delegates who are backers of President Eisenhower. In addition, the state gave the president a vote of 46,467 in 260 of 297 precincts in the preferential section of the ballot. He was unopposed there.

Though New Hampshire is traditionally Republican, this was the opening round between Kefauver and Stevenson, and both now are looking to the Minnesota primary next week as a more decisive test of strength.

IKE BACKS NIXON

President Eisenhower today said he would be happy to have Vice-President Nixon on any political ticket with him. Although throwing his support to Nixon, Eisenhower did not actually say he favors Nixon as his running mate.

Top Total for 1955

There have been 43 per cent more cases of chicken pox, mumps and rubella (German measles) in Saanich, Victoria and Esquimalt so far this year than were noted throughout 1955, it was reported today.

Saanich health officials said in the past week or two as many as half of the pupils in some classrooms have been absent at the same time.

Much of the absenteeism has been blamed on a virus flu which also has swept the district in recent weeks and is still reported active in some Saanich and Oak Bay schools.

In Saanich 542 cases of chicken pox were recorded so far this year while in all of 1955 only 474 cases were noted.

City Man Reveals
Ordeal in WildsEngineer Treks Through Blizzard
To Get Aid for Trapped PGE Party

Details learned today disclose that three Victorians had a narrow brush with death when a snowmobile carrying a six-man party broke down near Fort St. John Sunday.

The trio, provincial deputy railways minister Joseph Broadbent, Cyril Wightman, PGE official and Dick Batey of radio station CJVI were members of a PGE railway inspection party making a weekend trip.

They credited a six-mile trek for help by a PGE engineer with saving them from severe frostbite and possible death.

"We were seven hours behind time when the snowmobile finally broke down," said Batey via telephone from Prince George today. "The drifts were too much."

The party carried sleeping bags, snowshoes and lunch, and decided to walk out to civilization.

"By midnight we were exhausted," Batey said. Realizing it was impossible to go on, they spread their bags out on dead branches, lit a large fire and slept. Each breakfasted on a quarter can of beans and coffee and headed down the trail again Sunday morning.

Five miles further on, the party was again exhausted from fighting the heavy snow and stopped at a shack.

At this point Bud Connell, resident construction engineer at remote Honeymoon Creek, decided to set out for help.

Battling through six miles of blizzard he struggled through to a sawmill settlement operated by Ernie Nichols.

"We stripped Connell of everything heavy so he could travel faster and he set off for Nichols sawmill. He made it," Batey said, "and returned with one of Nichols' men and a sled and team of horses."

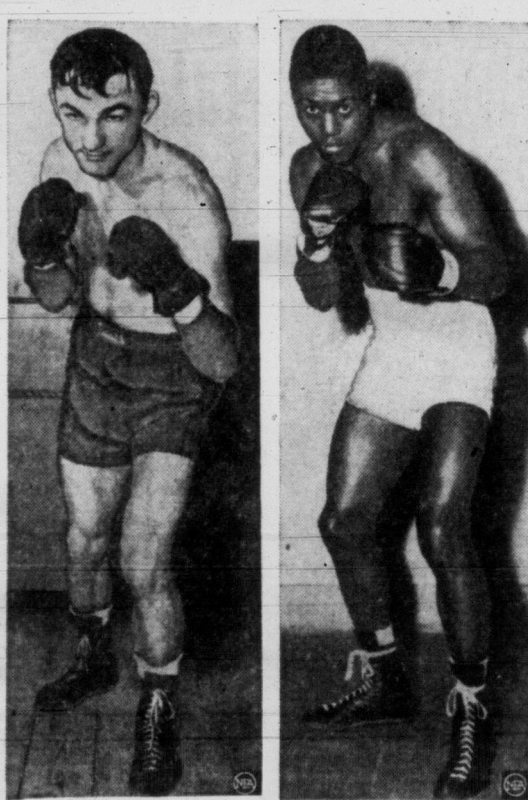

They waited out another blizzard at Nichols' home and were taken out over 18 miles of drifted roads to civilization Monday in two PGE jeeps, assisted by a bulldozer.

Other members of the party were B. C. Lewall, PGE chief engineer, and Lew King, PGE superintendent for Prince George.

Lewall is recovering from frostbite in Prince George Hospital and Broadbent has been released after treatment.

FIGHT FOR WORLD CROWN

Welterweight champion Carmen Basilio, left, remained a 2-1 favorite to whip ex-titholder Johnny Saxton in their 15-round title fight tonight in Chicago. Saxton will enter the ring with three-quarters of a pound weight edge. The bout, expected to gross $75,000, will be televised on Channel 5, starting at 7.

No Wade-Wells Bid
On Cassiar Road Job

Wade and Wells Ltd. did not enter a bid when tenders were opened today for a section of the controversial Stewart-Cassiar road.

The tenders were the first called on the road, which was worked on by Wade and Wells during the 1954 and 1955 construction seasons on a no-tenure, cost-plus and machinery-rental contract.

The project was the object of an intensive investigation by a legislative committee during the recent legislative session.

Three bids were received on the Dease Lake section of the road. General Construction Ltd. bid $335,120, Pigott Construction Co. $375,330, and John A. McIsaac $225,950.

The low bidder, McIsaac, worked on the road prior to the award of the job to Wade and Wells.

The tenders were for a contract similar to that held by Wade and Wells, who were identified during the committee hearings as "old friends" of former mines minister R. E. Sommers.

Contract calls for construction of from 25 to 30 miles of road along Dease Lake, described as "far tougher country" than that previously encountered.

Bids were only for machinery-rentals on 18 pieces of equipment required under specifications of the contract.

The government will pay 10 per cent over the cost of labor and food.

An appropriation of $1,500,000 is available for the Stewart-Cassiar road this year.

The President firmly emphasized that the United States is ready to do anything to help in the British-Greek dispute over the British-held island of Cyprus. But he made it clear this country will not take sides.

Earlier, the British foreign office was reported flabbergasted by the expression of "sympathetic concern" which U.S. Ambassador - Cavendish - Cannon gave to the Greek government and a state department spokesman's remark that the U.S. is urging Britain to resume its negotiations with the Cypriots.

London officials said both actions suggested the United States was siding with the Jordanian army.

Policy Endorsed
By Confidence Vote

LONDON (REUTERS)—AN OPPOSITION MOTION OF CENSURE ON THE GOVERNMENT'S HANDLING OF THE SITUATION IN CYPRUS WAS DEFEATED IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS TONIGHT BY A VOTE OF 317 TO 252.

LONDON (UP)—Prime Minister Anthony Eden demanded the House of Commons vote confidence today in his policy toward Cyprus.

"Our immediate purpose must be to defeat terrorism. Our duty is equally to safeguard the strategic need of our country and our Allies," he told the Commons during debate on a Labor party motion of censure.

Eden declared Britain needs Cyprus as a military base to carry out her Atlantic pact duties, her pledge with the United States and France to keep peace between Israel and the Arab states, and to protect Britain's vital interests, including oil, in the Middle East.

Eden said that in negotiations with exiled Archbishop Makarios, leader of the union-with-Greece movement on Cyprus, "all we asked for, at every stage, was a declaration against the use of violence, and we did not get it."

"I submit, we had no choice but to fulfill our responsibilities or abdicate our authority. We chose the former."

"As to the future, the offer made in the white paper (for Cypriot self-government) stands. Our immediate purpose must be to defeat terrorism."
